Pork fills beef lag

WASHINGTON — Beef production edged down this week as farmers continued to await the lifting of price controls, but a sharp spurt in the price of control-free pork brought enough supply to market to more than offset the beef slippage, according to an Agriculture Department report issued Friday. The report said total meat production under federal inspection for the week reached 518 million pounds, down nearly a fifth from a year ago but 2 per cent above the previous week. Beef production for the week was off to 287.3 million pounds.

Secret bombing order verbal?

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department said Friday the March 18, 1969, order for 14 months of secret U.S. bombing raids in Cambodia might have been given orally, with no written record kept. Pentagon spokesman William Beecher, a member of the department task force named recently to dig into the history of the controversial raids in 1969 and 1970 and their official cover-up, said the team had been unable to find the order setting the operation into motion. "Perhaps it was verbal," Beecher said. If so, the question of specifically what was ordered and by whom may never be answered.

Israelis detain Iraqui airliner

TEL AVIV — Israeli warplanes forced an Arab airliner to land at a military base in the Jewish state Friday night, but released the plane and its 81 occupants after a puzzling, two-hour check of the passengers and crew. An Israeli spokesman refused to say why the warplanes intercepted the Middle East Airlines twin-engine Caravelle over Lebanon, but guerrilla sources indicated it might have been an unsuccessful attempt to capture four Palestinian commando leaders.

Astronauts view sun flare

HOUSTON — Skylab's astronauts Friday photographed a "truly spectacular" violent solar explosion of gaseous material larger than the mass of the earth. Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, taking life easy on their first day off from 14 days of orbital research, viewed the rare solar event through their powerful sunwatching telescopes. Dr. Ernest Hildern of the high altitude observatory in Boulder, Colo., said the ejection of solar material — known as a coronal transient or loop — happens only two or three times a year.

Worst in history?

Sex-sadism toll now at 23

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two teen-agers, pointing out mounds of black dirt in a pine forest and white sand in a marshland Gulf Coast beach, Friday led police to more graves and the bodies and bones of four young boys killed in a three-year spree of sex and sadism.

The death toll reached 23 and investigators said it would go higher—unless strong tides or hungry wolves had carried away the remains of more victims.

W. L. Young, a Houston police detective, said officers expect to find at least four more bodies on the beach, which could make the crime the worst mass murder in U.S. history.

"If they buried as many as they say, there will be four left on the beach," Young said. "They said six in all (on the beach)."

Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, chain-smoking and wild-eyed, and David Brooks, 18, calm, quiet and handcuffed, pointed out the graves. Both confessed they were involved with a bachelor friend, Dean Allen Corll, 33, in the murders.

The search stopped at nightfall Friday, after three days, because of rising tides from the Gulf of Mexico. Two bodies were unearthed in the morning under tall pine trees near Broaddus in East Texas and two more were located under scruffy grass on the beach near High Island, Tex., 35 miles east of Galveston.

Police suspended the hunt for more victims until Monday because they said seawater would cover the area most of the weekend.

"I don't honestly know if I can find any more," Henley told officers on the beach.

After searchers discovered the two bodies in the sand, they dug in several other areas without finding bones. They did find some plastic and nylon rope similar to that used to wrap some of the bodies found earlier.

"It's what looks like what came off a body. The body could have washed off or the wolves could have gotten it," said police Sgt. David Mullican or suburban Pasadena.

"There's probably a lot more bodies down there," said police detective J. P. Paulk, "but we think they've led us to all they know of."

Police found 17 bodies buried in a musty boat shed in southwest Houston Wednesday and Thursday. The search then spread to the woods 125 miles north of Houston and to the beach.

Henley and Brooks said the slayings came during homosexual orgies. Henley killed Corll during one such "party" Wednesday.

Henley, who wore a gray jump suit in the forest but shed it later under the sun on the beach, murmured over one grave a message meant for the mothers and fathers and friends of the slain victims:

"I owe these people this much—to let them know about their boys."

Det. Young said: "We'll probably end up with almost 30 in all. One of the defendants has known Corll since he was 6 years old and another has known him for three years.

"But he's dead, so we'll probably never know how many were killed —maybe a hundred," said Young.

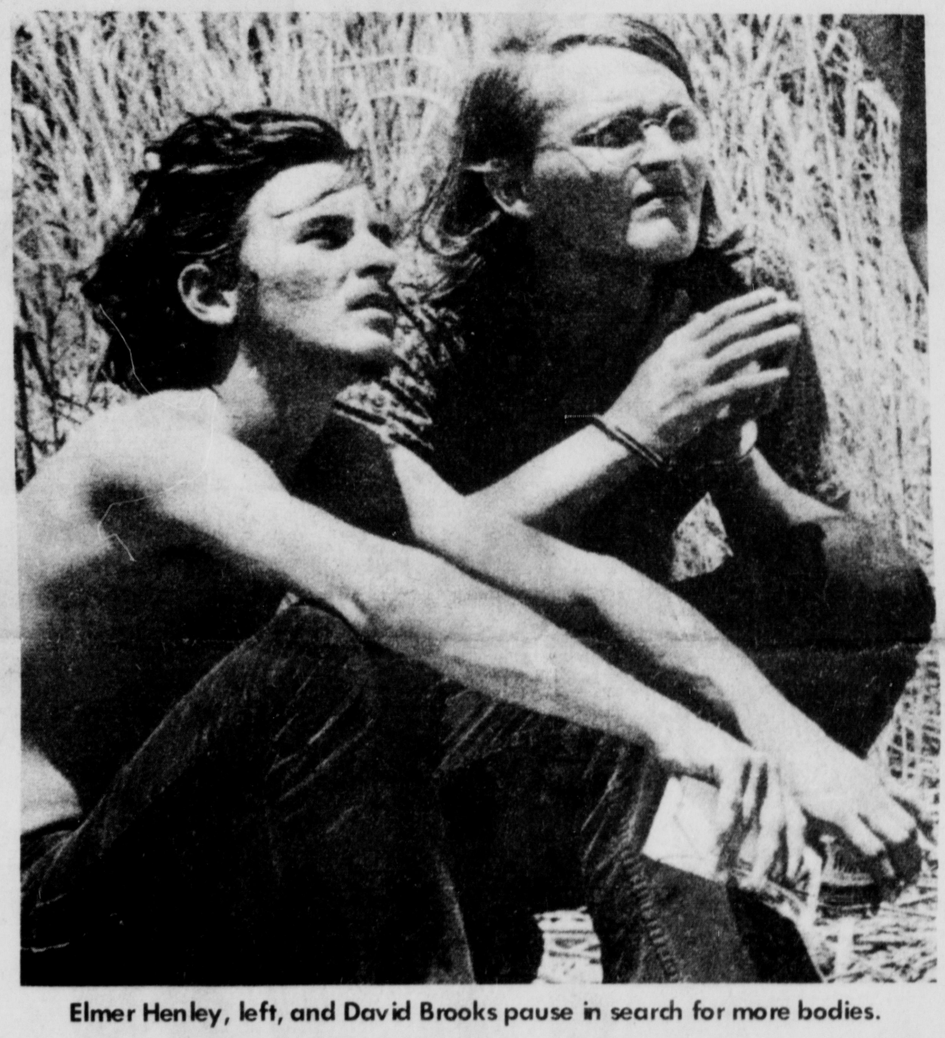

Henley was charged Friday with four counts of murder in the forest deaths and Justice of the Peace C. A. Renfro ordered him jailed under $100,000 on each count —a total of $400,000.

In a three-page statement, Brooks said young boys were killed at five Houston houses.

"I remember helping bury one of the bodies up near Sam Rayburn Lake. There was already one body buried up there," Brooks said. "When we went up there, there was a hand sticking out, so we put a rock on top of the second body so that it wouldn't come up."

Brooks described two of the killings —the deaths of a boy he identified as Billy Baisch and another called Johnny.

"Wayne (Henley) strangled Billy and he said, 'Hey Johnny,' and then when Johnny looked up, Wayne shot him in the forehead with a .25-automatic.

Elmer Henley, left, and David Brooks pause in search for more bodies.

Accused killer a boy-man

HOUSTON (UPI) — Elmer Wayne Henley is not still a boy and not yet a man but he has the worries of both.

He has the drab yellow stains of nicotine on the tips of his fingers. But he still calls his mother "Momma."

He has thick brown hair that falls all the way to his chin when he shakes his head. But his chin will barely sprout whiskers.

He is 17 years old, almost 6 feet tall but he weighs only 130 pounds.

Elmer Wayne Henley stands accused of being a killer.

"I've told them everything," he said to his mother in a halting telephone call early Friday.

"What do you mean, everything?" said Mrs. Mary Henley.

"Just everything."

"Oh, Wayne," she said, and she knew what a mother knows about her son.

"Momma, be happy for me, because now, at last, I can live," said the youth.

Henley had confessed to crimes that were ghoulish. He admitted that he, David Brooks, 18, and Dean Allen Corll, 33, had been involved for three years in a sex scheme that meant torture and death for as many as 30 young boys.

Henley, who never finished the eighth grade, has admitted he killed Corll during an orgy early Wednesday. He also was charged with four counts of murder at St. Augustine, Tex., Friday in the slaying of youngsters. And he was ordered jailed under $400,000 bond.

"There appeared to be no exact pattern, except that Henley and Brooks would lure the boys to different locations where Corll and Henley would perform sadistic acts on them —either killing them by strangulation or with a gun," said Houston Police Lt. Breck Porter.

Brooks, a former junior high school classmate of Henley, confessed that he took part in many of the killings and helped bury the dead. He claimed that Henley and Corll were sadists who molested and tortured the victims.

Henley said Corll offered him up to $200 a boy for bringing him youngsters to satisfy his sexual appetites.

"I'd tell them we were going to go visit and party a little," Henley said Friday, shortly after he pointed out the graves of two more victims near Broaddus, Tex. "There were no girls. Corll got mad when I brought my girlfriend the last time but I've taken girls there before.

Brooks, who was Corll's roommate for a time, said Henley was the most vicious, according to Lt. Porter.

"Brooks said Henley was extremely sadistic and liked to tie the boys down spread-eagled on a board on the floor and perform unnatural sex acts before murdering them," Porter said.

Henley confessed to the crimes and Friday all he had was his conscience.

"I don't understand how he lived with it," said his mother. "He never told me a thing about it and he was always so considerate."

Blue Shield rate hike $11.8 million

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Insurance Commissioner Herbert Denenberg approved Friday an $11.8 million annual statewide rate hike for Pennsylvania Blue Shield.

The rate increase was less than half the $25.8 million the health insurance company requested.

Denenberg said 56 per cent of Blue Shield's subscribers will be affected by the rate increase. They will pay about 50 cents more per month to have their doctor's bills covered, he said.

It is subject to approval by the federal Cost of Living Council and is scheduled to take effect Oct. 1.

Dr. Robert S. Sanford, president of the Pennsylvania Medical Society, said the rate increase "won't even begin to cover the losses that will have been incurred this year if the increase goes into effect in October."

Sanford said Blue Shield has been losing money this year at a rate of $1.8 million a month, and even with the rate hike, Blue Shield will be forced to operate at a loss.

"With this partial rate increase Blue Shield can operate for only a limited time," Sanford said. "at this rate, bankruptcy could be as close as the end of this year."

Denenberg said the increase affects all community rated subscriber agreements except subscribers of the Plan A Fee Schedule.

Firms admit illegal gifts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Officials of the Gulf Oil Corp. and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. made illegal corporate contributions to President Nixon's reelection campaign and have received refunds, it was disclosed Friday.

In separate disclosures, Gulf Oil was acknowledged to have donated $100,000 of corporate funds to the campaign and Goodyear to have donated $40,000.

A Gulf spokesman said his company's contribution was made under pressure from Nixon fundraisers but Goodyear chairman Russell DeYoung said his company was not pressured into making a contribution.

The two firms were the third and fourth to acknowledge making illegal contributions to the Finance Committee to Reelect the President, which was headed by former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans. Goodyear said Stans was not told its contribution was from corporate funds.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has urged firms or individuals who made illegal contributions to report them voluntarily. Their cooperation will be considered in deciding what charges will be brought against them, Cox has said. According to some estimates the number of firms and individuals involved may run into the hundreds.

The illegal Gulf contribution, made by a vice president in two $50,000 payments, was disclosed by the re-election finance committee.

Gulf Board chairman B. R. Dorsey said the money was given "in response to persistent requests" and "enormous pressure" from Nixon campaign representatives.

The donations were revealed in copies of letters exchanged between the committee's treasurer, Paul E. Barrick, and Cloyd R. Mellott, a Pittsburgh lawyer representing Gulf.

Readies W-gate rebuttal

Agnew scandal irks Nixon

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon, preparing his Watergate counterattack in a half-hour television speech to be delivered the middle of next week, was reported Friday to have "hit the ceiling" when he learned Vice President Spiro T. Angew was under federal criminal investigation.

White House sources said Nixon was "angry" over the latest hint of scandal to touch the highest levels of his administration, and tried unsuccessfully to talk Agnew out of holding a news conference.

These sources said Nixon told the vice president at their one-hour, 45-minute meeting Tuesday that it would be better to remain silent about Agnew's implication in an alleged kickback scheme in Maryland.

But, they said, Agnew responded he felt he should go ahead with the televised news conference that he held the next day.

Agnew told reporters he had informed Nixon of his intention to hold a news conference.

White House deputy press secretary Gerald Warren, referring to the report that Nixon was angered by Agnew's legal problems, said Friday that "from the information I have, there is nothing that would lead me to believe the report is accurate."

The White House maintained its cool, arms-length position on the affair Friday, withholding any expression of full presidential support for Agnew. Warren said only that the President "has had and has confidence in the vice president."

The White House sources said Nixon planned to let Agnew "stand alone" in defending himself against allegations arising from the federal investigation of possible charges of tax fraud, extortion, bribery and conspiracy.

Warren tended to confirm this Friday by saying the White House would "absolutely not" make any move to block a possible Agnew appearance before the federal grand jury in Baltimore, that there had been no contact between the White House and Agnew's lawyers and that Agnew was free to prepare his legal defense without interference.

Warren confirmed that Nixon would address the nation next Tuesday or Wednesday from the White House, his first detailed response to Watergate allegations since he issued a 4,000-word statement on May 22.

The speech will come about a week after the Senate Watergate committee concluded the first phase of its hearings.

State records asked by Maryland probers

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — While Vice President Spiro T. Agnew relaxed at Frank Sinatra's plush home in this desert resort, federal prosecutors in Maryland subpoenaed public records involving him from the Maryland state archives.

Agnew's attorneys said they had not yet decided whether to turn over his private financial records.

Agnew arrived in Palm Springs Friday, avoiding all newsmen and public appearances, for a weekend of rest following the disclosures in Washington that he was under investigation by the U. S. Attorney's office in Baltimore in connection with a probe of alleged kickbacks.

Agnew, who was Baltimore County executive and later governor of Maryland before he became vice president, denied the allegations as "damnable lies" in a Washington news conference Wednesday.

A spokesman at the home of Sinatra, a friend of the vice president's, would not say what Agnew was doing. The vice president and the singer often play golf together at Palm Springs.

The Sinatra home is across the street from the Tamarisk Country Club. Nearby is the home of U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain Walter H. Annenberg, which has a private golf course.

A spokesman for Agnew's New York attorneys, Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton and Garrison, said it had not yet been decided whether Agnew would turn over private financial records requested by the U. S. Attorney.

"The matter is still under study," the spokesman said.

Another Agnew attorney, Daniel Levitt, said in Maryland Agnew has been granted at least one week's extension, until Aug. 16, the next time the grand jury meets, to produce the financial records.

The vice president's attorneys are still studying the possibility of claiming executive privilege for the records, Levitt said. Agnew also could refuse to turn them over under his Fifth Amendment rights.

Nixonites sought dirt on Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House acknowledged Friday that President Nixon's former aides apparently asked various government agencies for intelligence on Democratic rivals before the 1972 election.

Presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren declined to confirm a story in the Washington Post that confidential White House memoranda showed that potentially embarrassing information was sought from the Secret Service, the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service and the departments of justice, commerce and defense and interior.

But he conceded that such memorandums "apparently were being circulated at various levels of the White House prior to the election."

He said this was "in relation to procedures which were apparently then in place and procedures which are no longer in place."

Warren declined to say whether Nixon was aware of the attempts to put the government departments and agencies to partisan political uses.

Gas, oil frozen for another week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council Friday extended the price freeze on gasoline and petroleum products until Aug. 19, but said service stations victimized in price wars would get a break once the freeze is lifted.

For the rest of the economy, except beef, the price freeze expires Monday. Merchants and wholesalers will be able to boost selling prices in line with regulations under the administration's Phase IV stabilization program.

Council Director John T. Dunlop said it would take extra time to draft the complex rules that will govern the oil industry under Phase IV and that was the reason for the one-week extension of the freeze on prices of all petroleum products.

The Phase IV oil industry rules in brief:

—Gasoline and home heating oil will be subject to a ceiling price that includes the markup for profit being charged last Jan. 10. But the council said soon it would have to charge a smaller markup than 7 cents a gallon. This provision was to avoid hardship to retailers who were involved in price wars at that time.

—Service station owners will have to paste a sticker on every gasoline and diesel oil pump stating the ceiling price and octane rating of the fuel. This is supposed to prevent such price gouging techniques as selling a lower-octane gasoline for the same price.

—Home heating oil retailers can raise their ceiling prices at the start of each month to reflect higher costs, but also must reduce prices if costs decline. The automatic price adjustment is designed to encourage more heating oil imports, the council said, and to avoid the sort of shortages that left some parts of the nation with cold furnaces last winter.

—Old drillers will be able to sell "new oil", that is, oil above the amount the company produced last year, at free market prices. This, too, is designed to encourage additional production.

The administration announced Thursday after weeks of study that it will retain its present system of voluntary fuel allocation while modifying it to increase oil imports.

Food cost takes quantum jump

By United Press International

The Agriculture Department said Friday the cost of feeding an American family during the second quarter of 1973 was 15 per cent higher than a year ago, but local surveys indicated that the jump was much greater since the beginning of Phase IV.

A daily United Press International survey of 10 supermarkets in 10 cities across the country since the ending of the food price freeze July 18 showed prices in some categories rising more than 60 per cent.

Agriculture Department economists in Washington said the retail cost to feed the statistical family of 3.2 persons rose in the second quarter—a period when meat prices were controlled but before the June 13 freeze on other food—to an annual rate of $1,497, 6 per cent higher than the first quarter and 15 per cent higher than a year ago.

But in the more than three weeks since the freeze was lifted, the UPI survey showed that most prices that could go up, have gone up. Some, such as poultry and eggs, have increased startlingly.

How to get more money

Taj Mahal-ers haven't given up

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The Pennsylvania School Boards Association (PSBA) is telling its members how to convince voters to spend more on school construction than the legislature said they should.

The General Assembly — through the so-called "Taj Mahal" school construction act — set limits on the amount school boards may spend.

If the boards want to spend more than the limit, they must first hold public hearings and then win approval of the voters in a referendum.

But less than two months after Gov. Milton J. Shapp signed the bill into law, the PSBA is telling school boards how they can win the referendum by taking advantage of the public's susceptibility to a good public relations campaign.

An article in the July-August issue of the PSBA Bulletin entitled "school Construction Campaigns — Do It Right" is part of the effort. The magazine goes out to school board members.

PSBA also is conducting a series of workshops for school board members "to reduce the trials and errors of boards and administrators faced with upcoming building referendum."

And it is promoting two books which tell school boards how to plan referenda and how to set up good public relations campaigns.

The magazine article, written by Albert Holliday, former public relations director for the Education Department, advises school boards to use a variety of public relations tactics if they have to go to a referendum.

The thrust of the article is that the school boards should let sympathetic citizens and students do the work and the board members should keep in the background, out of the center of controversy.

The article's suggestions include:

—school boards should organize citizens' committees to do the promotion of the project because "the offs greatly increase for its passage."

"As the public sees it, boards and administrators have a vested interest in the passage of an issue; overly vigorous campaigning by them tends to create the idea that the new building is really a monument, to the board or superintendent."

—use bumper stickers, billboards, question and answer sheets, newspaper ads, letters to the editor, lapel buttons, door to door leaflets, envelope stuffers, posters, yard signs, radio spots, slide - tape presentations and letters.

—"all members must unite behind the issue. One dissident board member will stimulate anti-groups who can severely reduce chances of passage."

Air standards mean 'paralysis'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd said Friday unless the government rolls back some of its clean air standards, the United States will experience national paralysis.

Byrd, a Democrat from coal-producing West Virginia, called for "a softening of bureaucratic dogmatism" and a relaxation of existing environmental rules.

He said the environmentalists have laudable goals but they must yield.

183 Philly cops cited for graft

ST. DAVIDS, Pa. (UPI) — The head of the state Crime Commission cited 183 Philadelphia policemen for "misconduct or criminal action" in connection with alleged payoffs Friday in calling for department records to be released to his group.

Executive Director Lawrence Hoyle, at a news conference, announced he has sent letters to Police Commission Joseph O'Neill and District Attorney Arlen Specter documenting instances of the 183 officers receiving a total of $122,000 in payoffs and gratuities over a one-year period.

Hoyle, whose group has been probing alleged city police corruption for more than a year, called on the department to release duty and radio logs and daily administrative reports to aid the commission in uncovering other officers who "have regularly accepted money for police services."

The commission this week petitioned Commonwealth Court to force the department to comply with earlier subpoenas for the records.

Hoyle described most of the money accepted by officers named in commission data as "clean notes" and not bribery money to protect illicit activities.

Farm 'produce' bill signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Friday signed into law a hard-fought compromise farm bill designed to stimulate production and lower food prices. But he noted the four-year measure "falls short" of the administration's goal of removing government from agriculture.

The program, which takes effect in 1974, is built around government-supported "target prices" which are significantly below current record-high market prices but above the levels of most past years.

Shaped during months of wrangling between the administration and Congress, the bill replaces an expiring law which provided fixed minimum support payments to farmers no matter how high the market prices went.

"It means," Nixon said in a statement on the new law, "that our farmers can expand production during the current period of worldwide food and fiber shortages without fear of a serious drop in farm income.

"Indeed, this law should help in our battle against inflation by encouraging farmers to produce at full capacity."

He said the cost of the program to taxpayers in the form of government payments to farmers would be reduced and in some cases eliminated because strong demand has boosted prices considerably higher than support levels.

Administration officials predict somewhere between 10 million and 12 million more acres will be planted next year because the new farm law removes acreage-idling requirements included in previous price support legislation.

Nixon, who objected to some parts of the bill, said he signed it although "it falls short of the high standard I have set for reforming farm legislation and eventually moving the government out of agriculture."

The law creates target price levels in 1974 and 1975 for wheat at $2.05 a bushel, corn at $1.30 a bushel and cotton at 38 cents a pound. It also reduces from $55,000 to $20,000 the maximum that any farmer can receive in grain-cotton subsidies.

Other provisions increase minimum dairy supports to 80 per cent of "fair price" parity; liberalize food stamp benefits for needy families; ban food for peace aid to North Vietnam, and repeal a 75 cent a bushel "bread tax" for flour millers.

Laird approved secret bombing

CHICAGO (UPI) — Presidential advisor Melvin Laird admitted Friday he approved a "separate reporting system" while he was defense secretary in 1969 to keep Cambodian air strikes secret, but denied falsifying any official documents given to Congress or the press.

Laird told a news conference he approved the secret reports on the U.S. bombing of Cambodia because the Cambodian government, while agreeing the bombing was necessary to hit North Vietnamese supply points, asked that it be kept confidential.

At the time, Laird said, the U.S. was bombing both South Vietnam and Cambodia. He devised a system under which the Cambodian bombing was reported only to the President and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the South Vietnamese bombing was reported publicly.

"As far as the means by which the reporting procedure was carried out, the separate report was made directly to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on these strikes," he said. "I approved that."

Bomb-halt suit hearing denied

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Three U.S. Court of Appeals judges denied an appeal Friday by Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., who sought a hearing on a suit calling for an end to U.S. bombing in Cambodia.

Judges Frank Coffin, Lovin Campbell and Edward McAntee upheld a U.S. district court decision that the court had no jurisdiction over the case now that Congress has voted to cut off bombing funds Aug. 15.

The suit, also filed by three other Massachusetts Democratic congressmen, was rejected by U.S. District Court Judge Joseph L. Tauro Wednesday on the grounds that the issue had been settled by the congressional vote to cut off bombing funds Aug. 15.

Rep. J. Joseph Moakley, Gerry Studds and Michael J. Harrington joined Drinan in his suit along with Airman 1C James H. Hayden, stationed at Hanscom Field at Bedford.

Nixon campaign unit to reveal donor list

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The California Secretary of State's office announced Friday that President Nixon's 1972 campaign organization has agreed to disclose the source of millions of dollars in secret funds raised before a new federal law took effect April 7, 1972.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democrat, said detailed reports covering both contributions and expenditures will be filed with his office by Sept. 28.

Brown said the reports will cover all funds raised and spent prior to April 7, 1972, including transactions which occurred outside California. Funds raised and spent after that date already have been disclosed.

"I am informed that the new reports will cover millions of dollars in contributions which the Nixon organizations raised prior to April 7, 1972," Brown said.

"Testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee has revealed that Nixon fundraisers made a special effort to obtain contributions prior to April 7 under the mistaken belief that money raised during that period need not be made public."

FHA can grant home loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed legislation Friday extending authority for the Federal House Administration to grant low-interest loans at least until Oct. 1 to ease the current squeeze on home mortgage money.

Simultaneous with White House announcement of Nixon's action, the FHA issued a statement saying its maximum interest rate on single and multiple-family dwellings was being raised from 7 per cent to 7.75 per cent.

FHA authority to grant low-interest loans to would-be homebuyers expired June 30.

The interim measure signed by Nixon and cleared by Congress a week ago is designed to provide more time for the White House to reach agreement with the House and Senate on a bill to extend the FHA's authority to make such loans until next June 30.

The boost in the FHA's maximum interest rate had been expected. Housing Secretary James T. Lynn, whose department includes the FHA, said July 5 that he intended to raise the rate as soon as the FHA's lending authority was restored.

Under the new bill, FHA also gets renewal of its authority to insure loans for home improvements and mobile homes.

Going home

By NORMAN LEHDE

Another anniversary of a great moment in countless lives, V-J Day, the end of World War II, rolls around next Tuesday. It is quite likely the day will not be one receiving major recognition. In fact, since it is not an official holiday, there is little likelihood that, like Armistice Day, marking the end of World War I, it will be changed to make a convenient long weekend.

Yet this was a day when many lives, altered and twisted by the war, were suddenly changed again. For the men and women in the armed forces, who were strung around the world, it meant, most of all, one thing — going home.

Going home. Shortley after V-J Day, the supply officer of our base in Algeria was asked to attend a meeting at Casablanca relative to the disposal of Quartermaster and Air Force equipment under his control. At least, that was what he thought the meeting would be about.

A former school teacher, he was a serious individual and very concerned about the property under his charge. The anticipated move "over the hump" and through China to the land of the Rising Sun had been obliterated by two shocking explosions that rivaled the sun itself. What now?

What now, indeed? Whenever he asked a question, the answer was the same. "To hell with it, captain. Have another drink. We are going home!"

Going home. If there are any memories of a war that, long after the conflict is over, remain so stimulating that to recall them is to live again a treasured moment in time, they have to be the days and hours when one was anticipating — going home.

One recalls varied reactions to the news of the arrival of the magic V-J Day. Some went to the chaplian, some went to the nearest bar. Some stood and laughed, some sang, some rolled GI cans down the stone steps of the former French military school where we were based.

Ahead would lie great new problems generated by the war; ahead was a post-war world that would be, at times, almost as disturbing to the humanist as it was when that world was in flames.

But, on V-J Day, and for a brief, glorious time thereafter, even had they known what lie ahead, most of the members of the nation's armed forces would have spent little time in conjecture or apprehension — they were going home.

School sign-up scheduled

BANGOR — School registration for Bangor Area students will be held in the junior high school at Five Points on Aug. 27 through 31 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

A birth certificate must be presented for any pre-school child and any student transferring from another state must also present a birth certificate. Any other records of innoculations and vaccinations should also be presented.

Any pre-school child who is registered for kindergarten must be five years of age by Jan. 31, 1974.

Elementary Supervisor Domenick DeFranco said the registration is for children who have moved into the area since school closed or who missed the registration in March. DeFranco said it is important all pupils are registered prior to the opening of the school term.

Mrs. Marie Harding will be the nurse in charge.

Will take Clinton, N.J., job

Byrnes resigns Del-Val school post

MATAMORAS — The resignation of Richard Byrnes, middle school principal, was accepted with regret by the Delaware Valley School Board Thursday night.

The resignation will become effective Oct. 1. The middle school administrator has accepted a position as curriculum coordinator in Clinton, N.J.

During the meeting, which was conducted by chairman Herman Davis, resignations were also accepted from one teacher and one teacher's aide, while five new faculty members were hired for the 1973-74 school year.

A custodian and a teacher's aide were also hired.

The board announced that agreements had been approved for use of classroom space in the Presbyterian Church in Milford and St. Ann's Church at Shohola.

Both facilities will be used for kindergarten pupils.

On the recommendation of the district superintendent, Dr. S. William Ricker, the board raised the price of school lunches at the high and middle schools from 45 cents to 50 cents, and at the elementary school from 40 cents to 45 cents.

The price of milk will remain at five cents per carton.

The cost of night school courses was also raised from $5 to $10.

Director Walter R. Shannon, III, announced that a local electrician, Fred Herbst, had offered to evaluate the electric system of the district. Ricker said he would welcome any suggestions that Herbst, who is familiar with district needs, could offer.

Last month the district's electric bill was $2,114.

Mrs. Wilma Shay, project director of the district's Title I summer school program, submitted a report of the program to the board.

The program, just concluded, embraced 57 children and was funded for $17,224.

Board meeting

SCIOTA — The regular meeting of the Hamilton Township Supervisors will be held at 7:30 p.m., August 13 at the municipal building in Sciota.

Smithfield approves plot plans

MINISINK HILLS — The Smithfield Township Planners Wednesday approved a resident's sub-division plans, but delayed action on the possibility of holding bi-monthly meetings.

The sub-division plan, which involved the sale of a tract of land from Raymond Roberts to Fairway Reality, Inc., met the standards of the township's ordinance and was unanimously approved by the planners.

A decision to hold an additional business meeting per month was deferred until the September session. The planners currently meet the first Wednesday of each month. Any additional meeting would probably be set for the fourth week in the month.

The recent creation of a Smithfield Township Zoning Hearing Board, which will increase the planners' decision making work load, is the reason for the possible bi-monthly sessions.

Jaycee sign-up

KRESGEVILLE — The annual membership night of the Western Pocono Mountain Jaycees will be held at 7:30 p.m., August 17 at the Indian Mountain Rod and Gun Club. Each Jaycee is asked to bring a potential member who is between 18 and 35 years of age.

White water run set

WHITE HAVEN — The second of four white water canoeing days on the Lehigh River will be held Aug. 18.

Releases of 750 cubic feet of water per second will be made from the F.E. Walter Dam near White Haven for the event. Participants should be familiar with the handling of a canoe and all water safety practices.

Extremely low flow conditions may cause cancelation or re-scheduling of the event.

Other recreational activites at the dam, such as fishing and boating, will not be hurt by closing of the access road or the boat launching area unless a heavy rain precedes the event.

The event is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, the Department of Environmental Resources, the Army Corps of Engineers and various canoeing associations.

Canoeists planning to take the run who are unfamiliar with the river should contact one of the following canoe clubs: The Mohawk Canoe Club; the Philadelphia Canoe Club; and the Buck Ridge Ski Club.

Bangor band starts practice

BANGOR — Bangor Area High School band will begin practice Aug. 13 for the upcoming football season and has issued an invitation for new members. Band director William T. Stine said the band will rehearse Aug. 13, 15, 16, 20, 21, 23, 27, 28 and 30.

He said prospective new members may attend any of these rehearsals or report Aug. 14 for an audition. All rehearsals will be held at 6:45 p.m. in the senior high school music room.

Landfill not filthy ogre

Many West End residents are opposed to the establishment of a county landfill in their section of Monroe County. "Let them keep the garbage where it comes from, in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg," they are saying.

How short-sighted and unthinking! We'll bet a number of those people don't hesitate at all to come into the more densely populated areas of the county to take advantage of the services they offer. Don't they realize that providing these services creates the need for relief outlets?

The crowded downtown where these people are happy to shop produces substantial amounts of waste that must be disposed of someplace. It is impossible, without the expenditure of great sums of money, to dispose of it in Stroudsburg, for example.

The area is densely populated because it takes large numbers of people around the downtown area to staff those stores and make shopping possible. Each of these people produces solid waste, which must be disposed of.

And that's not taking into account the varied industries in East Stroudsburg, Stroudsburg, Stroud Township, Delaware Water Gap and elsewhere. They provide jobs and feed the economy that, in one way or another, help to keep the entire county out of the abject poverty category. And they also produce waste that must be disposed of.

In short, the West End needs the rest of the county as much as the rest of the county needs the West End. It is not only short-sighted but insular, parochial and downright selfish to say, "keep your garbage to yourself; we won't let it in here."

A landfill operation isn't an open dump, you know. It is sanitary (which is why they call it a "sanitary landfill") and, in many areas, is considered a very practical and efficient way to reclaim useless land for parks and other non-industrial uses.

We suggest those West End residents who are so quick to jump into opposition to a county landfill think about things a little before they pop off. Do some reading up on landfill before you condemn it.

Patience out, too

Just what is going on? First, we're short of meat. Then we're short of soybeans and grain products. Next, we're short of gasoline (and officials aren't too confident we'll last out the winter with heating fuel, either).

Now we're also short of toilets. (Toilets!?) Yes, and we're short of concrete, too, both shortages leading up to a slowdown in home construction, which means we'll be short of houses pretty soon.

Oh, we forgot; because of rising prime interest rates, we're also short of mortgage money to buy those houses we're going to be short of.

Let's see — there must be something else. Oh, yes, paper. We're short of paper, too. Paper for newspapers, magazines, letters, wrappings, hand towels, books . . . even that paper that goes with the toilets we're out of.

Are these shortages arising because we're running out of the resources we need to make them, too? No, it's primarily because of labor problems here and there, and new environmental standards that have either made expansion too costly for manufactuerers' tastes, or have forced polluting plants to close down.

You see, we're also running out of clean air, water and land. And, apparently, cooperative and willing bargaining between labor and management. This has got to cease; the whole nation is being hurt. And we don't like it.

You know what else we're running out of right now? Patience.

Just words

Words have their fashion and like the width of men's lapels vary in popularity from season to season.

A few years ago everything was charismatic. The following year we impressed friends with "dichotomous." In 1972 we discovered "ambience" and of course followed it with the ever-popular "ot" which useage still puzzles us.

The chic word for 1973 is linear which up to now we thought meant a bicycle path along an Interstate. We hope linear is around long enough to be used pertaining to Watergate . . . that would be its just fate.

Sandbagging Nixon

However the Watergate drama comes out in the end, one thing is now certain. In policy terms, the Nixon Administration is unraveling like an old sweater. The issues we had supposed adjudicated in the 1972 election have all been reopened. In fact, all along the line, the Administration's liberal opponents are taking advantage of Watergate to reverse the result of 1972. A few startling examples:

(1) Skyrocketing welfare costs were a basic issue in 1972. Governors Reagan and Rockefeller had moved to center stage through welfare crackdowns. Following suit, the Nixon Administration had junked the expensive Family Assistance Plan. It had installed a fiscal conservative and welfare sceptic, Caspar Weinberger, at HEW. It had given Howard Phillips a mandate to cut back at OEO. Now all this has been reversed. Alvin G. Arnett has changed Phillips' course at OEO 180 degrees. Melvin Laird speaks of returning to FAP. At HEW, strong indications exist that Weinberger will be succeeded by liberal civil - rights activist Frank Carlucci. Tough luck, everyone who voted for Nixon in 1972.

Other changes made

(2) At the Justice Department, in response to a widespread anti - permissive consensus in 1972, Richard Kleindienst took over as Attorney General. Now, though completely untainted, he has been forced out by Watergate. His successor is Elliot Richardson, he of the social - worker rhetoric. Liberal environmentalist William Ruckleshaus is slated for a top post under Richardson. He is unassociated with law - and - order. The 1972 election must have occurred in another country.

(3) If anything was clear from the 1972 vote, it was a massive rejection of George McGovern's neoisolationism. He was on the defensive here throughout the campaign. The election has to be interpreted as a ratification of Nixon's realpolitik in Southeast Asia and elsewhere.

Now, in a series of startling moves, Congress is seeking to reverse this result. The August 15 deadline for the Cambodian bombing, agreed to by Nixon, removes all of his diplomatic leverage there. The Senate Armed Services Subcommittee has eliminated from the defense budget key strategic weapons systems viewed last year by the Administration as vital to the balance of power, post - SALT. The important Trident submarine program has been cut back. Thus it appears that we are going to get more "welfare" and less national security, even though Nixon won the election on the opposite position.

Another defense department?

(4) The Senate has now authorized $3.9 million for the Office of Technology Assessment. In the absence of resistance in the House, or a veto from a Waterlogged White House, this institution could come into existence. Though ostensibly designed to provide Congressmen with technical information on things like lasers, nuclear weapons and the like, the OTA will really be a sort of counter - Department of Defense, full of doves and Teddy Kennedy courtiers.

Unless the Administration can get on top of all this, the President will find himself a sort of hollow man, stuffed full of the discredited liberal policies he defeated in 1972.

If that occurs, he might well regard it as the lesser humiliation, or indeed as a kind of triumph in adversity, to deal his liberal tormentors a final solar - plexus punch by allowing Spiro Agnew to become president before 1976.

Post-coronary lease on life

My husband has recovered from a heart attack. The X-rays and the cardiograms have been normal for almost two years.

Since his attack he is scared to death to do anything, even though the doctor has told him to get back to work, to play, and to exercise.

What more can we do to help him? He is only 46.

Mrs. E.Q., Ohio

Dear Mrs. Q.:

A heart attack is a severe physical and emotional blow to anyone, man or woman, at any age.

A young man, particularly, filled with his family responsibilities, is severely injured when a heart attack deprives him of his masculinity and his drive to function normally.

Your husband, as do many other people, often refers back to "the time I had my coronary." Reference to this time indicates that it is a milestone that will forever be remembered by the person whose life was momentarily threatened.

Many who recover from such an attack consider that they have been given a virtual new lease on life. And indeed they have!

You can tell it by the way so many people suddenly give up smoking cigarettes, start to lose weight, and readjust their hectic patterns of daily living.

These are the very same people who, prior to a heart attack, would hardly listen to the advice of their family and friends, and especially the advice of their doctor.

Many people walk on the brink of destruction, toying and gambling with their health until it finally collapses.

Then, and only then, will they take stock and consider the valuable possession of health that they almost sacrificed.

In order to have your husband return to full serviceability, it may take the coordinated effort of your doctor, your family, and possibly even a psychologist.

It often is an arduous task, but you must not give up in despair or else the chances are great that he will, despite his complete physical recovery, remain a lifelong emotional cardiac invalid.

It is the opinion of heart specialists everywhere that well-planned exercise and activity is an actual contribution to the recovery of the heart.

Overindulgent rest may be the reverse of what is good in order to get that heart muscle back in tone again.

Doctors today are so aware of the need for emotional rehabilitation in heart cases that they begin a program while the patient is still in the hospital.

An optimistic attitude during convalescence is imperative if the patient's morale is to be sustained.

I have known men and women who have recovered from severe heart attacks who engage in a very humane avocation. They seek out others who are in the early stages of recovery, visit them, and show them the hope that lies in store for them.

Doctors are now able to study the exact level of physical tolerance of every recovered heart patient. In this way they can outline the perfect regime for each individual.

Your husband, with gentle and kind persuasion and understanding, can be induced to take his rightful place in society, without the fear that seems to dominate his life.

Holding tank ordinance concerns

Editor, The Record:

As a property owner and resident of Coolbaugh Township and one who attends supervisors meetings (that is, those open to the public) I am deeply concerned.

The supervisors of Coolbaugh have recently passed a holding tank ordinance. All well and good, I'm the first to agree townships need ordinances. But nowhere in Coolbaugh's ordinance on holding tanks does it state these are only to be temporary facilities.

Yet at one of the meetings John Grady, the township secretary, said holding tanks are only to be temporary facilities. Now since its initation and adoption everything has swayed toward the developers of a new development in Coolbaugh, who were issued two holding tank permits before the ordinance was passed.

The ordinance implies that the supervisors are now in the sewage business. They will be responsible for the disposal of sewage from these tanks.

From all appearances this ordinance was initiated by developers of the new development. It is a known fact that supervisors had many closed door sessions with representatives from this one development. It is also a known fact that this developer has been pushing for permits for holding tanks and that he has offered the supervisors an escrow fund in the amount of $270 per holding tank and if developers don't pump the tanks and have it hauled away, the supervisors will have to do it.

Haulers have said the cost per load is now about $50 and there is a possibility of it going as high as $100, depending on the distance they have to go and if indeed there is an approved site to dump.

How far will $270 go toward this expense? The township will have to pay.

Traffic light for Pocono Plaza

Editor, The Record:

Now that we have a traffic light for the Pocono Plaza, why can't we get one for the Ridgeway - Crystal Street bridge corner?

I feel we need a light there far worse than we did at the Plaza. This is a very, dangerous corner with the obstruction of one's view, because of the end of the bridge.

I often wondered if a small end of the bridge could be "cut off" safely? Someday someone will be injured or even killed at this site since some thoughtless person or persons who do not care about harming other people smashed the large traffic mirror that helped the driver see what was coming down the hill, I feel the only other solution is a traffic light.

There are numerous other danger spots in East Stroudsburg, namely, trying to enter Washington Street from Starbird Street.

One's vision is blocked out by the huge bushes at this corner. Also cars should not be allowed to park at the corner of Braeside Avenue and Ridgeway Streets, so close to the corner.

Another problem is the huge trucks trying to get around the corners of Prospect and Analomink Streets, then up to the corner of Lackawanna and Analomink Streets.

These truck drivers have damaged several poles as well as knocked down route signs. They have tied up traffic while they maneuver back and forward so they can get around the corner, then they go up over the concrete curb and in time this will deteriorate and break off.

It will also damage our streets, as they were never built for such heavy trucks, and then we the taxpayers must put up with these trucks as well as helping to pay for the damage they do to our roads.

I feel these trucks should be banned from these streets.

Why Watergate Lawyers?

Editor, The Record:

I have one question I have not heard asked in the Watergate investigation.

That question is - who is paying the battery of high priced lawyers representing the high officials being questioned.

If a person is innocent and has nothing to hide, why are high priced lawyers necessary? There must be some fire along the line with the smoke to make these high priced lawyers necessary.

I suppose these individuals are still drawing their salaries, even though they are not on the payroll. I suppose the answer given to this would be "advisory capacity."

Is the middle bracket taxpayer taking another unwarranted licking?

Chennault tape

WASHINGTON — The Hullaballo over the White House tapes has raised reports of another secret tape, which could settle a great historical controversy.

Excellent sources tell us that Anna Chennault, the Chinese widow of World War II hero Gen. Claire Chennault, was picked up on tape as she allegedly lobbied with the South Vietnamese ambassador to sabotage a peace conference on the eve of the 1968 presidential elecments in Southeast Asia.

This election - eve peace effort might have won the close election for Hubert Humphrey. Instead, Saigon issued a statement opposing the peace conference and refusing to participate. This made the abortive peace effort look like last - minute political trick to save Humphrey from defeat. Humphrey now believes the Saigon statement cost him the election.

Was Madame Chennault responsible for disrupting the peace effort? The facts are in dispute, but this much is acknowledged by all sources. Richard Nixon's campaign manager, John Mitchell, had asked Madame Chennault to keep the campaign informed on developments in Southeast Asia.

Bugged embassy

This quest took her to the South Vietnamese embassy, where she spoke to then - Ambassador Biu Diem. Our sources claim the embassy was bugged and her conversations were secretly taped. It is known that Ambassador Diem complained to the State Department that his embassy was wiretapped.

The dispute is over what was said. Madame Chennault insisted to us that she merely sought information but said nothing about boycotting the peace effort. Our sources swear she was recorded as warning the ambassador that Humphrey would immediately pull U.S. forces out of Vietnam if he should be elected, that the Communists would take over the country and that government officials would be executed.

Her alleged statement to the ambassador, given as a representative of Nixon, was communicated to Saigon. When Lyndon Johnson learned of the taped conversation, say our sources, he was furious. His anger became more explosive when a Nixon campaign aide, Robert Finch, accused President Johnson of announcing a peace conference before he had "gotten all his ducks in a row."

The enraged LBJ, believing the Nixon camp had upset the ducks in Saigon, put through a phone call to Nixon. Our sources say that Johnson declared he was still President, accused Nixon of instructing Madame Chennault to sabotage the peace conference and threatened to expose the whole affair on nation wide television. Johnson petulantly referred to Finch as "this guy Fink."

Dirksen's mission

Before Johnson hung up, Nixon was able to mollify him. They agreed that Sen. Everett Dirksen, R - Ill., would go to the South Vietnamese ambassador and declare that Madame Chennault was not speaking for Nixon. In return, LBJ agreed not to take to television.

But the damage had already been done. The peace - disrupting statement from Saigon, issued the weekend before the election, was never repudiated. And Nixon defeated Humphrey by a close one per cent of the vote.

....Footnote: Humphrey told us he had been informed of Madame Chennault's alleged intervention but not of the existence of any secret tape. Humphrey said he sent one of his own campaign aides, James Rowe, to the South Vietnamese ambassador with a message. Humphrey directed Rowe to tell the ambassador that if South Vietnam's President Thieu did not come to the truce table and if Humphrey should be elected, Thieu "would rue the day."

Coup D' Etat: An Anticonsumer coup d' etat appears to be under way in the ranks of the National Motor Vehicle Safety Advisory Council, which advises the secretary of transportation on auto safety.

Created by the motor vehicle safety act of 1966, the council meets annually to hear technical papers. Then it advises the transportation secretary what his auto safety policy should be.

At the 1973 "congress," General Motors executive Trevor Jones, an industry delegate, convinced the council to hold its 1974 symposium in conjunction with the annual convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE).

Later, however, some council members learned that the industry - dominated SAE would administer the entire congress. The auto men would arrange the program, fix hotel assignments and even decide which papers would be presented.

Council member Dale Hogue, a pro-consumer Washington attorney, dispatched a letter to Jones expressing his concern that the council would become "an instrument of industry."

"I realize I was remiss in voting for the resolution without investigating its ramifications . . .," Hogue continued. "SAE is regarded as an extension of the motor vehicle industry inasmuch as its main body of members is from the auto industry . . . . Therefore (our) relations with the SAE should be at arm's length. . . ."

Since receiving Hogue's letter, Jones is reconsidering the arrangement with the SAE. The auto engineers, however, are confident that when the dust settles, the automotive industry itself may well be telling the government what is safe and what isn't. They already have been making hotel arrangements for the 1974 joint conference.

Footnote: Hogue confirmed the authenticity of his letter but refused to discuss it.

One of TV's most wanted breeds

Remember Ham Majors? He's saving shows

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Roger Bowen has joined the ranks of show saving actors who are added to the casts of weak television series to bolster the ratings.

Gale Gordon of "Here's Lucy," Charles Nelson Reilly, Dom DeLuise, William Demarest and others are long-time rescuers of troubled shows.

Paul Lynde was a prime member of the club until he starred in his own show, which needed succor from a show saver itself before it perished.

Bowen was the starchy Hamilton Majors Jr., the lame-brained boss of Hershel Bernardi on "Arnie" for two season. Before its demise "Arnie" became almost a Roger Bowen vehicle.

Now he is being added to the cast of "The Brian Keith Show" which made its debut last season as "The Little People." Thrust of the series is Keith, as a pediatrician, surrounded by squalling brats and dismayed women. The ratings drooped toward the end of the season.

"I think the producers felt Brian needed a man on which to play off some of his humor and anger," Bowen said.

Bowen is a bland looking fellow with a quick intelligence who savors playing stuffed shirts. Ineptitude in persons of authority turn him on.

"I love to play people who take themselves seriously. They become funny," Bowen explained. "I love to play comic businessmen, generals and politicians. Maybe subconsciously I have it in for them.

"My new character in 'The Brian Keith Show' is Dr. Spencer Chaffee, a crusading allergist who winds up in Hawaii. His idea of being a good doctor is to look as much like a doctor as he possibly can.

"He is the kind of man who over-emphasizes the obvious."

Bowen himself is far from the bumbling peacock he portrays on the tube. He lives in San Francisco and commutes to Hollywood to work. For his new assignment he will move to Honolulu for from 3-6 months, depending on whether the series is renewed.

If he has a real life foible it is writing novels. Thus far he has hacked out seven books, none of which have been published.

"I have an eighth novel I'm going to start on soon," he said, unruffled by his lack of success as an author. "But I don't hold the record for unpublished writers. I think it's held by a lady down in South Carolina who has 27 or 28 books sitting around the house unsold."

Bowen devotes from three months to three years writing his books.

Barman's a machine

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Aerospace engineer Robert W. Kross has had only one problem with his computerized bar—a young lady who put her drink order card in upside down.

"She had two of those seven-to-one martinis—and all of a sudden she was snockered, all in less than 30 minutes," said Kross, who demonstrated his bar this week at the annual San Francisco Gift Show.

The inventor checked and found the girl was slipping her card into the machine improperly.

"Instead of seven-to-one martinis, she was getting fourteen-to-two," said Kross.

"So we had to notch the cards so you can only put them in one way."

With the double dispensing problem corrected, the Dallas engineer started manufacturing the bars for retail sale at $1,800 to homeowners and businessmen equipping executive suites.

Kross said Wednesday that he's sold 50 "by accident" while seeking dealers at four recent gift shows across the nation. He also convinced prestige stores, such as Abercrombie and Fitch, to carry them during the Christmas season. A&F in San Francisco was awaiting delivery of its floor sample today.

The device can mix 50 different cocktails in five to seven seconds, using gin, vodka, scotch, rum and bourbon. It dispenses 150 drinks before requiring a refill.

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Yesterday the big stores, today the smaller shops: Tiffany's and Cartier's aren't huge by Macy's-Bloomingdale standards but too big to be included among the "little shops" which summon a visitor's interest. Both Tiffany and Cartier need no explanation here; we've patronized both, know they have superior merchandise and extraordinarily expert sales folk, so we pass on to tinier premises:

Arthur King on Madison Ave. near 59th St. designs his own jewelry, unusual in extreme without touching the grotesque. Artistic, bearded, enthusiastic to the point of carbonation, Arthur King's baubles are famous in the select groups; it's plain nothing he does can be turned out on an assembly line, everything totally individually designed and executed; you won't meet your jeweled double which can happen even to Tiffany or Cartier customers.

Boris, further along Madison Ave. in the 60s is another successfully unconforming jewelry designer with a distinctly personal style. Both Boris and King are expensive.

Still gem-happy but wish something less wallet-crippling? Try Astro Minerals at 155 E. 34th St., dubbed "Topkapi of 34th St." Its Gallery of Gems runs a price gamut from the miraculously inexpensive to the most. Along with the rubies, sapphires, emeralds, you'll find semi-precious bargains in opals, malachite, rhodochrosite, lapis, tourmaline, rock crystal, rose quartz, topaz and lots more. You'll be amazed at the rich effect of many an inexpensive stone.

Gucci's of Italy has installed its rich, beautiful merchandise, mostly leather, into three separate locations in one 5th Ave. block — at the corner of 5th and 54th St., farther north in the same block in the St. Regis Hotel building and the third inside the St. Regis lobby. Gucci merchandise is fantastically fine, extremely expensive, everything the best — except the sales help, a heavy proportion with Italian accents and a manner totally unlike European sales staffs. You may have heard comedienne Joan Rivers on the Tonight Show belabor the salespeople at Gucci's in New York — and she was hilariously correct. They practice the age-old bad-sales paradox of plainly working as sales help while trying to impress customers that they are above it — and you. It doesn't work. The best shopgals we've encountered are the young ladies of considerable breeding and even some affluence anxious to work rather than loll in the chic luncheon spots and bars; Gucci's suggest the help has taken a chance to see New York while resenting the intrusion of work.

Ann Landers

Heavy depression

Dear Ann Landers: Iam deeply depressed about 80 pounds of excess weight. It belongs to my husband. If it were mine I would get rid of it. While other women are out spending money on clothes I am searching for books on dieting. I have even spent money to visit doctors so I can talk to them about my husband's weight. (I don't think it is fair to take a professional person's time without paying for it.)

All of this has netted nothing in the way of results. I just want to die when people ask me, "Why don't you put your husband on a diet?"

In the meantime he is so tired from carrying around all that excess baggage it's pathetic. Making love is such an effort that I hate to impose it on him.

The ramifications of my husband's refusal to do something about his fat belly are driving me crazy. He has an insurance exam every couple of years and the doctors say, "You're too heavy." He answere, "I know it." Now what? - - -

Ragged Edge

Dear Ragged: Nobody ever nagged, bribed, begged, lectured or shamed a pound off a friend, foe or relative. Losing weight is the daddy of all do-it-yourself projects.

Your husband needs to go to a head doctor and find out what's eating him. And you need another hobby, Lady. Your preoccupation with your husband's weight could be another kind of sickness.

ANOTHER GUY: (Q.) I like Janis very much, but I'm not sure she likes me because she likes another guy who doesn't like her but uses her to show off. What shall I do? I can't help but love her.

Suffering in D.C.

(A.) You should not judge how this girl and the other boy feel.

There is no way for you to know exactly how much she likes him and exactly how much he likes her.

If you like her but can't win her friendship and attention you should just let it drop.

BORED? (Q.) You are always telling guys to get a girl's telephone number and call her up. I did this. My problem is that every time I call Gail up she sounds like she is either dead or bored to death.

I like her just the same, and feel that if she likes me we could really get together and put it on. I would like to know what I could do to find out if she likes me. I asked her out once but she gave me an unsure no.

Jim in New Jersey

(A.) Some girls affect boredom or disinterest to protect themselves from disappointments or putdowns.

Ask Gail one more time for a date. The first time you asked she was apparently doubtful about you. If she says no again, you can be pretty sure she doesn't like you enough to be your girl friend.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 8-11

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	2 ♦	3 NT	Pass
4 ♥

Opening lead — five of diamonds.

This deal occurred in a team-of-four match.

At the first table the bidding went as shown and South got to four hearts. West led a diamond and declarer made ten tricks, losing two spades and a club for a score of 620 points.

Had East doubled three notrump, a contract he should expect to defeat after partner's vulnerable overcall, the out-come might have been altoghter different. The double would have told partner he had some values — in case, as seemed likely, South did not pass three notrump.

Undoubtedly, South would have bid four hearts in that event also, but the double would then have encouraged West to bid five clubs, rather than pass.

North would surely have doubled five clubs, as well as five diamonds after East bid it, and West would equally surely have made that contract, if allowed to play the hand there.

At the second table East-West actually did arrive at five diamonds on this sequence:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	2 NT	Dble	3 ♦
3 ♠	4 ♦	4 ♥	5 ♦
Pass	Pass	Dble

The two notrump bid was artificial — it was the unusual notrump convention showing extreme length in the minor suits.

Of course, North had every right to feel deeply disappointed at not beating five diamonds with his impressive high-card values, especially after partner had opened with a heart and voluntarily bid three spades. But things like that sometimes happen in this best of all possible worlds!

All together, his team lost 1,370 points on the deal.

Coming up

From this trick photo, done with mirrors, it would appear that the ABC Television Network expects its new series, "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" to go on forever. The half-hour comedy, which premieres in the fall, will air on Wednesdays (8:00-8:30 p.m.). In front are Bob Urich and Anne Archer (Bob & Carol) and beside them are David Spielberg and Anita Gillette (Ted & Alice).

In 5 days, Lon Nol's on own

WASHINGTON WINDOW
(Commentary)
By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American warplanes will cease all attacks on Communist forces in Cambodia at midnight next Wednesday, leaving the government of President Lon Nol to defend itself without the U.S. air support which has played such a large role in the past.

This will mark the end of direct U.S. military intervention in Indochina—the final military act in a long and traumatic struggle with many of the aspects of a Greek tragedy.

President Nixon did not ask Congress to extend its Aug. 15 deadline for the air attacks, obviously feeling he had no chance of getting approval. However, the President told Congress that its action setting the deadline risked "dangerous political consequences" in Indochina.

The President's warning failed to move Congress or stir any appreciable support among the American public. It was taken as just one more expression of the "domino theory" used so often to justify continued U.S. military activities in the area.

Solution seen

The immediate question posed by the end of the bombing is whether Lon Nol's forces can hold Phnom Penh against the well-organized Communist elements under the control and direction of Hanoi. Most American officials see little hope that the government forces could prevent fall of the capital in the face of a determined Communist effort.

But some officials doubt the Communists really want to capture Phonm Penh and assume the responsibility for feeding and otherwise caring for the refugee-swollen city.

Many American diplomatic officials believe that some members of the Lon Nol government and leaders of the opposing forces will find a purely Cambodian solution of the sort which eludes Western logic.

However, the consensus in informed quarters here is that North Vietnam probably holds the key to any long-term solution in Cambodia.

China opposes expansion

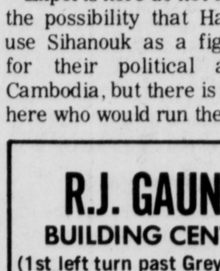

The Cambodian Communists, estimated at 50,000 to 100,000, are a fairly effective force built around a group of Hanoi-trained leaders who are quite efficient and also quite independent of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who was deposed as chief of state more than three years ago.

Experts here do not foreclose the possibility that Hanoi will use Sihanouk as a figurehead for their political aims in Cambodia, but there is no doubt here who would run the show.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

It's been a hot week in the Poconos, especially when you're required to drive a car which has been sitting in the hot sun so long that the seat is too hot to sit on and the steering wheel is likely to raise blisters on all ten fingers.

Everybody has his own idea of town planning, and my contribution to the ideal community would be municipal parking lots with enough strategically placed trees to shade most of the cars placed there.

Of course trees would cut down on the number of cars parked there and thus reduce the nickels and dimes being digested by the meters but they would also be an inexpensive and ecologically sound means of controlling air pollution, adding beauty, and air conditioning to the town, and comfort to the shopper.

Of course a growing number of people have air conditioned cars judging by all the cars on the thruways with their windows shut tight, but even air conditioning wouldn't help on the short hauls around town.

One of the things that impressed me about driving in Italy was all the shaded parking lots, under an arbor - like arrangement of vines or just cut branches. I can't see the meter maids cutting fresh branches every morning to re - roof the parking lots but trees would help. Especially my disposition.

Pipher-Griffin rites held in Maine church

ELIOT, Me. — Linda Sue Griffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley J. Griffin of Staples St., Eliot, Me., became the bride of Richard A. Pipher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Pipher of East Stroudsburg, recently in St. Raphaels Church, Kittery, Me.

She wore a white straw picture hat with hot pink ribbon trim and carried a colonial bouquet of pink tea roses, red roses, blue miniature iris and yellow daisies.

Miss Colleen Noonan of Dover, N. H., as bridesmaid wore a similar ensemble.

Chester Pipher of Stroudsburg, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Leonard Graves of Rochester, N. H., and John Bevin of Methuen, Mass.

Army a-building to fight high court's abortion ruling

By JEFFREY TANNENBAUM
Dow Jones - Ottaway News

NEW YORK — Thomas J. Mooney, 28, is a former vice president of the National Student Association, an antiwar activist and a former student adviser to Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern. "Most of my activities would be liberal-left if you had to categorize them politically," he says.

Mooney is also a militant antiabortionist. He is more or less typical of the new recruits in an army of unknown size — but certainly numbering many thousands — that is forming around the country. Its aim: to overturn or blunt last January's Supreme Court decision that states can't prevent women from having abortions during their first 24 weeks of pregnancy.

Like Mooney, most of these people stray far from the stereotype of militant anti-abortionists as right-wing, priest-ridden fanatics. In addition, they are well-organized. The hard core consists mainly of educated Catholics — doctors, lawyers, teachers and nurses — who are attracting a wider following, by no means all of which is Catholic.

Activists of all types

Activists include Republicans and Democrats, veterans of the antiwar and civil-rights movements and a host of otherwise unaffiliated middle-class Americans. As a consequence of all this, national politicians as well as state legislators are beginning to take them seriously, and they threaten to mount a real challenge to the newly formulated right of abortion.

Says an aide to Rep. Bella S. Abzug of New York, a strong supporter of the court's abortion decision: "The opposition is very well-organized and very strong. They really do pose quite a threat."

The movement's leaders claim that pressure is building for Congress to pass a Constitutional amendment barring abortion except in the rare cases when it's medically necessary. At least 11 proposed amendments have been introduced, though none has reached the hearings stage. One leader concedes: "It's going to be a tough fight, quite frankly. It's such a controversial issue that a lot of Congressmen won't want to take a firm stand either way."

Yet some prominent Senators, including Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Harold Hughes of Iowa, have endorsed the antiabortion position. Last November, before the Supreme Court ruling, anti-abortionists managed to defeat referendums to loosen abortion laws in Michigan (by 61 per cent of the votes) and North Dakota (by 77 per cent) after hard campaigning on both sides. While pro-abortionists generally have spread themselves thin over a host of other feminist issues, the antiabortionists have focused strongly on this one issue.

"It's an issue," says an aide to Sen. James Buckley of New York, "that's probably going to be bigger than anything since the Vietnam War."

The National Right to Life Committee, a Washington-based coalition, says antiabortion groups are active in all 50 states. "The Supreme Court decision shocked an awful lot of people into action," says Edward J. Golden of Troy, N.Y., president of the committee. Says James T. McHugh, director of the Family Life Bureau of the U.S. Catholic Conference: "The Court opinion was such a blatant attack on moral values that more people see the need to address themselves to the issue immediately and in a specific way."

Some groups are concentrating on lobbying in states whose old abortion laws have been struck down by the Supreme Court decision. They're seeking new laws as restrictive as possible (which isn't very restrictive) under the decision, and they're seeking state legislative resolutions to amend the U.S. Constitution to ban abortion.

The movement's major aim, however, is to drum up popular support for a Constitutional amendment against abortion.

Question plagues Mo. Synod

Can Bible error be admitted?

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Is it possible to affirm the authority of the Bible as the written word of God without claiming it is entirely free of error?

One of America's largest Protestant denominations, the 28.8 million member Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), has been brought to the brink of schism by bitter internal dissension over that question.

At its recent national convention in New Orleans, a fundamentalist majority headed by President J.A.O. Preus rammed through a series of resolutions which commit the denomination firmly and unequivocally to the literal "inerrancy" of the scriptures.

This means in principle that every pastor, seminary professor and member of the Missouri Synod is required to uphold every word of the Bible as literally and historically true.

This dogmatic stand, which the convention took by a 6-4 majority, may place an intolerable burden on the consciences of some Missouri Lutherans who revere the Bible but cannot regard it as infallible in every detail.

Immediately on the spot are President John Tietjen and a majority of the faculty of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, the denomination's largest institution for training of pastors.

These scholars would be regarded in most major Protestant bodies as conservative in their attitude toward the scriptures, whose inspiration they accept without question. But they do not believe it is necessary to read as literal history Old Testament passages that may be intended—like the New Testament parables of Jesus—to convey spiritual insights through the medium of stories.

The New Orleans convention majority ordered Tietjen and other Concordia professors to stop teaching this "false doctrine."

The seminary faculty responded to the ultimatum by invoking the freedom of conscience that caused Martin Luther to reject the concept of papal infallibility and bring the Lutheran Church into being.

The teachers said they could not accept any convention resolution as "binding on our conscience."

"Like Luther, we stand for an open Bible which we are free to read on its own terms," they declared. They protested the convention's "use of coercive power" to lay down an official line on how the Bible must be interpreted, and warned that "the truth of God cannot be imposed through convention action in adopting doctrinal statements but can only be recognized and confessed by means of the Holy Spirit working by faith through the Word of God."

This protest will cut no ice with Dr. Preus, who is determined to "clean house" at Concordia Seminary, beginning with the ouster of Tietjen.

The only question seems to be whether Tietjen—and the substantial minority of Missouri Synod pastors and laymen who share his views—will leave the denomination entirely for some more congenial environment, such as the American Lutheran Church or the Lutheran Church in America.

A Flag Is Born

In a little home in Philadelphia the ideas of several American patriots were made a reality by the nimble fingered seamstress, Betsy Ross, and a flag was born, emblem of a nation that was in the process of formation. It was a beautiful emblem and it came to mean much to the oppressed; to those seeking a land where there would be opportunity for all. The Nation that flag symbolizes has had many trials and has faced grave perils. It has had other things besides armed might to sustain it. Its leaders have relied upon prayer. Washington at Valley Forge, Lincoln after Antietem, prayed and the Nation came through. If prayers availed in the past they will serve in these critical times.

Regular attendance at your favorite churcch will aid in establishing the right relationship with the Creator so that our continued prayers will avail.

$15,000 grant

Dr. Herb Weber, right, director of the cardiac rehabilitation program at East Stroudsburg State College, receives a $15,000 check from Henry Janoski, treasurer of the Keystone Chapter, American Heart Assn. The grant will be used for the program.

Heart program receives $15,000

EAST STROUDSBURG — The American Heart Assn., Keystone Chapter, announced Friday the awarding of a $15,000 grant to the cardiac rehabilitation program being carried out at East Stroudsburg State College under the direction of Dr. Herb Weber.

The grant, which will ensure the program's continuance for the 1973-74 fiscal year, will "aid in helping to rehabilitate former cardiac cases," according to Weber.

He said the program's basic objectives will be carried out on patients meeting set criteria and referred to the program by a physician.

Weber stated the program will stress test patients on a motor-driven treadmill under a physician's supervision, monitoring EKG, heart rate and metabolism.

It will also provide exercise prescriptions for patients at a sequence of three times per week, under supervision, and periodically re-evaluate patients with stress testing to determine progress and update exercise prescriptions.

Weber said patients would be interviewed to explain test results and answer questions.

All testing, evaluation and exercise is done at the Human Performance Laboratory and field house at ESSC. All necessary emergency and resucitative equipment is available at exercise and stress tests and a cardiac nurse is at hand during all exercise sessions.

Resting evaluation includes EKG phonocardiogram, and carotid pulse tracing as well as metabolic function. Recovery evaluation includes EKG, blood pressures and heart rate.

At present 11 cardiac patients are enrolled in the program.

Write to know

The people in The Pocono Record's circulation area have a "Write to Know" — and The Record will try to provide the answers in the "Write to Know" column. The column is designed to answer any questions or solve any problems — consumer, government or anything else. Send questions to "Write to Know," The Pocono Record, 511 Lenox St., Stroudsburg, Pa. 18360. Questions must be in writing and signed in full. No telephone calls, please.

Q. Could you please tell me when and where the next World Pocket Billiard Championship will be?

J.C.S., Stroudsburg

A. Eight ball in the side pocket: you hit the right person. John Martin, production manager for ABC sports' "Wide World of Sports" program seen each Saturday, told us the next "championship (there are many such events)" will be held Sept. 20 in Chicago. In the mean time, practice, practice, practice.

Q. When I had my first child I went to the pre-natal clinic at the General Hospital of Monroe County and received beautiful treatment from everyone. Now I'm pregnant again, but when I went to the clinic again, I was turned down because my husband has Blue Cross and Blue Shield and major medical where he works. A friend with different insurance can get help but I can't. Why not?

S.S., Henryville

A. A spokesman for the clinic described the function of the clinic as follows: It is basically a charity clinic to provide services for those in need of pre-natal care who cannot afford to pay the average costs, which exceed $400. In your case, your medical insurance does pay for everything. In other words, the clinic is open only to those who can't afford to pay the full cost in one way or another.

Q. My patience is exhausted. Our RCA stereo has been on-again-off-again since Jan. of 1972. Many trips back and forth to the repair shop and many phone calls later, our stereo is supposedly in a Wilkes-Barre center awaiting parts. Can you help us?

B.M., Stroudsburg

A. It's not in Wilkes-Barre, but rather in Tannersville. Your set is at Dynatronics, Inc., Tannersville, with an "intermittent" problem for five months. The parts needed to fix it have been ordered and re-ordered, according to the firm, and the set will be fixed as soon as possible.

Q. Could you tell me of someone who would know the value of the Black Walnut Tree? I have one and cannot find anyone who can tell me. Is there anyone in this area who would know?

H.R.H., E. Stroudsburg

A. Yes. A local nursery said the value could go as high as into the hundreds of dollars, depending on the size of the tree. Suggest you contact State Forester John Bitzer and fill him in. He'll definitely be able to assist you.

Q. My husband read somewhere that colored toilet tissue has chemicals in it that can be harmful to a septic system. Is there any truth to this? I would hate to throw out my colored toilet paper.

B.J., Stroudsburg

A. Honestly, your Write to Know man nearly flushed your question down the toilet, but after checking it out with a few local chemists, your husband heard right! It seems the colored dye in the paper interferes with the tank function and also causes the colored paper to stay in blobs longer, thus clogging the system.

Q. Is there any kennel in this area where I can purchase an AKC registered dachshund, standard size, smooth-haired and red in color?

J.R., E. Stroudsburg

A. Your Write to Know man prefers St. Bernards, since he once owned one, but you can contact C. Bollinger in Gouldsboro at 676-4380. He might not have your size and shape, but he's got the dogs.

Q. Can you tell me if and when the United States ever won a gold medal for the ice hockey competition in the Winter Olympic Games?

A.M.S., Saylorsburg

A. Yes, the United States did once win a gold medal, in the 1960 Winter Games at Squaw Valley in California. U.S. also finished second behind the Soviet Union in the 1972 Games at Sapporo, Japan.

Q. What is the address of MENSA, the organization founded for people with high I.Q.s? Where do I write to contact them?

Mrs. L.B., Tobyhanna

A. Your Write to Know man tried E.S.P., but it didn't work. But the library at East Stroudsburg State College did help and provided us with this address for MENSA: 50 E. 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10017. The telephone number, in case you can't get through by E.S.P., is 687-0037, Area Code 212.

Q. We have been waiting for our income tax refunds from the State of New York for three months. We were told we were being audited, but should it take this long?

Mr. and Mrs. J.F., Stroudsburg

A. Contacted in Albany, the state Income Tax Bureau explained audits are still progressing. If you owed money for previous years, they are subtracting amount and sending you the remainder. If not, you can inquire about the situation, including your file number with request, by writing Division 75, New York Income Tax Bureau, Refund Correspondence Bureau, Albany, N.Y. 12226.

Q. Can you tell me where I can get pictures of my favorite movie stars, especially James Stacy?

A.H., E. Stroudsburg, R.D. 5

A. Usually at the movie studio the star you prefer is under contract with. In this case, Universal Studios, Hollywood, Calif., 90053.

Striking waste haulers to continue work stoppage

By STEVE DRACHLER
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Despite a pledge from the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources (DER) to quickly judge proposed sewage disposal sites, striking liquid waste haulers vowed Friday to continue their work stoppage.

The haulers' decision came during a meeting with four DER officials and Monroe County Commissioners Friday morning in the County Courthouse.

"I've gone as far as I can go," said DER's Kingston office head Fred Karl.

"They (haulers) just won't cooperate with us to get this problem solved."

Haulers claim tightening regulations and threats of criminal action sparked the work stoppage which began last Monday.

Hauler spokesman William Halterman claims DER should find a place for haulers to dump sewage from septic and holding tanks without being liable for prosectuion.

Haulers also protest forms and procedures they must go through to have disposal sites approved by DER.

"A Philadelphia lawyer couldn't fill out those forms," claimed hauler Bryden Newhart.

Karl disputed Newhart's claim, saying the entire form need not be filled out.

"All they have to do is get the very basic information for us and we will make an evaluation," Karl said. "It won't cost them much because the Soil Conservation Service will probably have almost all of the information we'll need."

Karl said he would try to have two DER representatives in Monroe County next week to help process and quickly judge requests for site approval.

"This could have all been avoided if haulers had answered our letter we sent them in May," Karl said.

"We received only a couple of replies. I don't know what they are scared of."

"We can't authorize them to break the law, and that's what we would be doing if we told them to go ahead and dump without the site being approved," he said.

Halterman disputed claims they could be polluting the water table if sites weren't evaluated.

"I have been dumping for 18 years in Monroe County," Halterman said. "I haven't seen a bit of pollution yet caused by us haulers. Why can't we just go back to dumping the way we used to?"

Halterman said the only pollution caused by sewage dumping was in the Butz landfill in Jackson Township, an operation approved by DER.

Commissioner William Quinn, as he had done earlier in the week, blasted DER's policies on waste disposal.

"Any agency with the power to stop should have the power to start," Quinn charged.

"You (DER) can wave your hand and stop anything in the state. It's bureaucracy at its worst!," Quinn exclaimed.

One suggestion that arose during the morning session was for haulers to use tank trucks to transport sewage to a large municipal plant for treatment.

The DER officials presented a list of possible disposal sites to haulers, but haulers said transporting to a site out of the county would raise costs they didn't feel the consumer would pay.

Hauler Harold Smith estimated the group probably pumps 30,000 gallons of sewage per day during summer months.

Four townships seek aid

Flood reports nearly done

By GERARD SUTHERLIN
Pocono Record Reporter

TOBYHANNA — Damage survey reports for northern Monroe County Townships which suffered flood damages during late June and early July are nearly complete, State Rep. Raphael Musto, D-118th said Friday.

Musto spent several hours at the Coolbaugh Township Municipal Building here Friday where he discussed flood problems with local residents.

"I'm very sure the work will be completed as soon as possible," said Musto. "We can't set a money figure for Coolbaugh yet until damage surveys are finished but that should be done in a couple of weeks."

Musto said the focal point of interest in his district's Monroe County section was Coolbaugh, Barrett, Paradise and Pocono Townships. Tobyhanna and Price Townships and Mount Pocono Borough are also part of the 118th District in Monroe County, but those municipalities had not reported severe damages.

"Any municipality which is interested in applying for federal flood assistance from the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDAA) should note that the deadline for filing a notice of interest in Harrisburg is Aug. 27," Musto added.

Jack Anderson, state Civil Defense eastern region director, outlined the procedure for applying for federal assistance.

Once a notice of interest has been filed with Harrisburg, said Anderson, damage survey teams will visit the municipality to evaluate damages and produce data for municipal officials to use.

Steam damage will be evaluated by a team including U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources (DER) personnel.

Road and bridge damage will be surveyed by a team of Federal Highway Administration and Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT) personnel.

Damage surveys have been completed in Barrett, Paradise and Pocono Townships, Musto commented. He added that Coolbaugh just sent in a notice of interest to Harrisburg Aug. 8.

Areas of Coolbaugh which need repair work, according to township officials are the Echo Lake Road and stream and bridge repair work near the Thornhurst development.

After damage surveys are completed and sent to the municipality they are attached to the municipality's application for FDAA assistance, Anderson explained.

The applications are submitted to the county CD office at the courthouse, then forwarded to state CD headquarters in Harrisburg for audit, and finally submitted to the FDAA office in Philadelphia where the final decision on approval or rejection is made.

R.C. volunteers work many hours

STROUDSBURG — Volunteers totaling 422 gave a total of 17,750 hours to Red Cross work in Monroe County last year, according to a report released by that organization Friday.

The Gray Ladies accounted for most of the hours, chiefly at the General Hospital of Monroe County and at Pleasant Valley Manor, the county home for the aged in Snydersville.

Other women volunteers included registered nurses, nurses' aides, staff aides, motor corps drivers and Canteen workers.

Men also served, in lesser number but significantly, as physicians during the monthly blood drives and as chapter officers and directors.

The board of directors of the county Red Cross organization is comprised of 14 men and seven women, headed by Lester Brown, Stroudsburg attorney.

In 1972 the chapter operated on a budget of $21,500, $5,328 of which went to pay the salaries of Executive Director Mrs. H. J. LaBar and her part-time helper, Mrs. Ralph Reppert.

Reporting on her office's service to the armed forces, Mrs. LaBar noted, "While there is a reduction in U. S. military strength due to the phase-down in Indochina, there are still many installations and medical facilities around the world covered by Red Cross field staff.

"Last year, our chapter provided assistance to 161 servicemen and their families for such things as responses to health and welfare inquiries, death verifications, leave requests, financial assistance and birth announcements."

Joseph DeRenzis, former chapter chairman who now heads the disaster committee, reported that in 1972 the local chapter provided assistance to 38 individuals with needs resulting from fires and floods.

In 14 blood drives during the year, 2,215 pints of blood were collected, according to program chairman Joseph Johnson. Patients at the General Hospital of Monroe County received 2,082 pints, with an additional 214 pints going to residents hospitalized outside the county.

A nationwide campaign to identify and enroll older Americans eligible for federal food assistance programs was headed in Monroe by the chapter's youngest director, Miss Patricia Congdon, 19. Acting on returned post cards, she and her committee contacted 198 Social Security recipients.

Dr. George Ockershausen, the chapter's safety program chairman, reported that 21 volunteer instructors issued 398 standard and advanced first aid certificates last year.

In the water safety program 138 instructors awarded beginner through junior and senior lifesaving and instructor certificates to 4,866 persons.

He also said that courses in small craft, rowing, canoeing, outboard boating and sailing are taught each year.

The chapter's motor corps, headed by Mrs. William Taylor, gave 311 hours covering blood drives and transporting patients to Allentown, Philadelphia, Elizabethtown, Kingston and Lebanon.

The annual report revealed a serious deficiency in the chapter's nursing and health program. "Due to the revamping of this program and a loss of authorized instructors," it reads, "this service has been dormant."

A recently completed course, however, has qualified nine registered nurses as instructors for these classes.

21 local entertainers sign for hospital's 'Mediathon'

STROUDSBURG — Twenty-one local entertainers will perform for the 15-hour "Mediathon" Monday for the benefit of the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Burned body found

ROCK LAKE — A burned body, which was discovered early Friday morning in an auto off Rte. 247, two miles north of Rock Lake, has not yet been positively identified by police and Wayne County officials.

State police at Honesdale were alerted at 7:30 a.m. Friday by area residents who found the burned 1966 Ford Mustang containing a burned torso in the front seat.

Through the tracing of the car's New Jersey registration plates, police tentatively believe the body may be that of an Elk Lake area man who left his home at 11:30 p.m. Thursday night and has not returned.

The state police theorize the vehicle may have been traveling north on Rte. 247 when for some unknown reason it ran off the left side of the road, went over a two and a half foot embankment into a brush-covered field and caught fire.

Severe storms knock out electrical service

STROUDSBURG — Severe storms Friday in sections of Monroe County knocked out electrical service in some areas for short periods of time, Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. district manager James Walton reported.

Lightning striking a 12,000-volt line at 7:22 p.m. in Cresco Corners disrupted service to some 2,300 PP&L customers in Cresco, Mountainhome, Canadensis, Dutch Hill and part of the Creek Road between Canadensis and Analomink.

A two-man PP&L crew dispatched from Mount Pocono was able to restore service by 8:15 p.m. The blackout temporarily delayed a performance at the Pocono Playhouse.

At about the same time, heavy winds blew a tree across a 12,000-volt power line running from Tannersville to Camelback, shutting off power briefly to 200 customers in upper Tannersville, Henryville and the White Oak Run Road.

A two-man crew dispatched from Stroudsburg restored service to this affected area.

Reports of interrupted electrical service to a number of individual customers scattered throughout the county, including the Lower Seese Hill area in Barrett Township, Mount Pocono, Kunkletown and Kresgeville.

Longshots Iverson, Rudolph lead PGA

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Longshots Don Iverson and Mason Rudolph shared the 36-hole lead in the PGA Championship Friday, but Jack Nicklaus at long last appeared primed and in position to win that elusive 14th major title.

Nicklaus, who has failed five times since the 1972 U.S. Open to win another major championship and break his tie with the late Bobby Jones, moved within a stroke of the surprising leaders as he fashioned a three-under-par 68 despite putting problems.

But Arnold Palmer, whose putting woes make Nicklaus' look like nothing, shot a 74 and went home, missing the PGA's 36-hole cut for the first time in his brilliant career.

"It got so bad, it was funny," the 43-year-old golfing millionaire cracked with a wry smile on his face. "I couldn't even get mad anymore. It was ridiculous."

Iverson, the 27-year-old Wisconsin pro who shared the first round lead, and the veteran Rudolph had rounds of 72 and 70, respectively, Friday and were at 139 for 36 holes.

Nicklaus headed a runnerup trio at 140 as he hit 16 greens in regulation—barely rolling over the other two—made three birdies and 15 pars and announced he thought his time had come.

"Golf is a game of patience," said Nicklaus, whose bids in the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open this year all were wrecked by a single hideous round. "If you don't have patience, you keep missing those putts and all of a sudden you shoot 75 real fast."

The trio at 140 also included Gibby Gilbert, who built a second straight 70 around four straight birdies on the front nine, and resurgent Dan Sikes, whose 68 included a chip-in birdie three at the 465-yard 13th.

Three more players were just another stroke away at 141 including the incredible Tom Weiskopf, who birdied the tough 18th for the second straight day and shot 71.

He was tied with former U.S. and British Open champion Tony Jacklin, who also had a 71 with a putter he made himself, and 1970 PGA winner Dave Stockton, who shot 69.

Remarkable Sam Snead, hardly showing his age (61), provided one of the day's most dramatic moments when he surged into a tie for the lead midway through the back nine. Snead bogeyed three of the last five holes, including 17 and 18, but still had a second straight 71 for a 142 total.

Mike Hill, Lanny Wadkins, Jim Colbert and club pro Bobby Brue were tied with Snead and about a dozen more players were at 143—putting virtually a third of the surviving field within four strokes of the lead and assuring a dramatic windup to this $225,000 event, last of the year's major championships.

Johnny Miller, the U.S. Open champion, was the biggest name of the 143's. Miller, who blasted the condition of the greens Thursday in the opening round, shot a 71 and announced he was pleased with the course.

"The greens were good," said Miller. "They were really fair."

Leading money-winner Bruce Crampton was another stroke back at 144, defending champion Gary Player was at 145 and Lee Trevino came in at 146 with a 70 Friday.

Iverson, playing in a major championship for the first time, started shakily when he caught a bunker at the third and missed the green at the fourth and took a bogey each time. He might have panicked and fallen off right there, but he had a little talk with himself.

"I figured on a golf course like this, that's no reason to push the panic button," said Iverson. He came right back with birdie putts of 40 and 15 feet on the next two greens and parred his way home except for a bogey when he bunkered his approach at 13.

Rudolph, so sick with a stomach virus most of the week he couldn't get in more than six holes of practice Tuesday and Wednesday, made three birdies, two bogeys and saved three other pars with long putts.

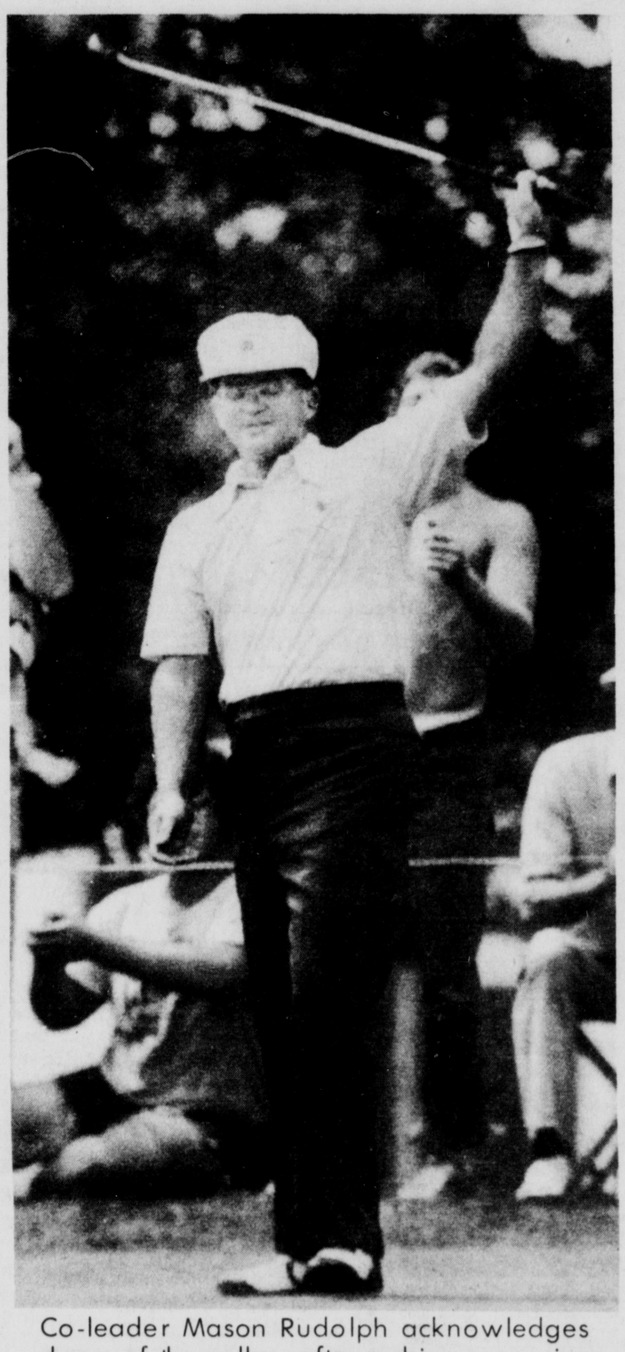

"Maybe that was the way to prepare for these major championships," Rudolph said. "Maybe I've been going about it all wrong."

Purse boosted to $225,000

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The PGA announced Friday it was raising the purse for the PGA Championship from $200,000 to $225,000. The winner will receive $45,000.

Thursday birdie binge got Rudolph on track

CLEVELAND (UPI) — It hasn't been a particularly good year for Mason Rudolph on the tour, but with the scent of victory in his nostrils, he's fired up and "ready to go" at the halfway stage of the PGA championship.

Rudolph, who was four-under-par at one stage for the tournament, finished with a one-under-par 70 Friday which left him at 139, three-under for 36-holes.

Rudolph's 70 came on the heels of a first round 69, a round which included a 31 on the back side and which he called "probably the best nine holes I've ever played in my life on a good golf course."

Rudolph, 39, of Clarksville, Tenn., who was sick earlier in the week and played only one complete practice round, made the turn in two-under 34 on the front nine of the par 71 Canterbury Golf club course with birdies on the fifth and sixth holes and a bogey five on the eighth.

He had eight straight pars on the back side before picking up a bogey five on the 18th hole when he hit his drive into the rough and left his second shot about 100 yards short.

Rudolph said his last nine holes on Thursday, which included five straight birdies, "really got me going.

"I left a wake-up call this morning," he said, "but I didn't need it, I was up and ready to play."

Rudolph's best finish in a PGA championship was fourth place in 1964.

"I think I've got a good chance to win," he said. "I've been close before, close enough to know where you start sweating."

Rudolph said the Canterbury course, 6,852-yards long with narrow fairways, "is the kind of course I like."

"I've always considered straight driving as one of the better parts of my game and you just can't play out of these roughs."

He said his putting has improved of late, pointing out he played 72 holes at Westchester last week without a three-putt green, "the first time I ever remember doing that."

NBA cops Dansbury cage tilt

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dan Whittaker scored 15 points and Rich Baker added 12 Friday to give the NBA a 67-51 decision over the ABA in the Dansbury Park Basketball all-star game.

Whittaker, a former East Stroudsburg High School standout, and Baker, who played for Stroudsburg, led the NBA to the victory in a game composed of 20 players, each playing in the division he played in during the regular season recently completed.

Stroudsburg's Greg Veney led the loser with 12 points, while the Mounties' Rick Shafer added nine, as did East Stroudsburg's Grey Propst. Fred Davis and Blaine Deitz each had nine for the winner.

Jay Mayes of Lehighton received the league's most valuable player award for regular season action, while Whittaker, Baker, Mayes, Deitz and Propst were named to the all-star squad.

Tour 'non-winner' 'Services' leader

WADSWORTH, Ill. (UPI) — Debbie Austin, never a pro winner, took a special golf lesson two weeks ago and wound up Friday with a three-under-par 70 at Midlane Country Club to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the $30,000 LPGA Child and Family Services Open.

Trailing her with 71 was Sharon Miller, also seeking her first win. Jo Ann Prentice, Sherry Wilder, Mardell Wilkins, Laura Baugh, Jane Blalock and Roberta Albers were another stroke back at 72, one-under on the 6,523-yard course.

Miss Austin, disgusted when she failed to make the cut at the Women's Open, went home to Syracuse, N.Y., to take lessons from her pro, Augie Nordone.

"I give him 100 per cent of the credit," she said. "He changed the way I addressed the ball, and now I've got a flatter swing and a freer one and I'm hitting the ball the best I ever hit it.

"I'm not one of the long hitters, but I've added the confidence that I can knock the ball onto the green, and make a couple of putts, and it's made all the difference in my game."

Friday, Miss Austin bogeyed two holes when she three-putted from 15-feet on the first green and from 35-feet on the seventh. But she holed out a 45-foot wedge shot for a birdie on the 14th, scored under par on two other holes with putts of 10 and 12 feet, and reached the green in two on the par five 18th to set up another bird.

Miss Austin's best tournament finish in six years was second last week when she played with the flu. Friday she was suffering from a cold.

Munson's hitting prowess helps Yanks nip A's, 10-9

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thurman Munson drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a bunt single to offset a pair of homers by Oakland's Reggie Jackson Friday night and led the New York Yankees to a 10-9 victory over the A's in a game that featured seven homers.

Roy White and Ron Blomberg also homered for the Yankees while Deron Johnson and Bert Campaneris connected for the A's.

Munson's homer, his 16th of the year, got the Yankees off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning, and his bunt single came in the third to score Bobby Murcer, who had tripled, as New York built an early 4-0 lead.

The A's, however, knocked out starter Pat Dobson in the fourth when Bill North walked, Sal Bando singled and Johnson unloaded his 15th homer.

Angels, Robby topple Bosox, 5-3

BOSTON (UPI) — Frank Robinson drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Richie Scheinblum snapped a 3-3 tie with his third single of the night in the eighth inning Friday as the California Angels beat the Boston Red Sox, 5-3.

Lee Stanton opened the eighth with a triple to right-center field and scored the game-winning run when Scheinblum punched a single over second base.

The Angels took a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Ken Berry walked and Robinson cracked his 20th homer of the year into the left field screen.

Dave Sells got the win for California, taking over from starter Dick Lange in the sixth inning. Sells is 5-2. John Curtis, 11-9, took the loss.

Braves edge Pirates, 5-4 for Niekro

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Run-scoring singles by Frank Tepedino and Marty Perez in the ninth inning proved to be decisive as the Atlanta Braves edged the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-4, Friday night behind the five-hit pitching of knuckleballer Phil Niekro Friday night.

Atlanta carried a 5-2 lead into the bottom of the ninth, with Niekro having retired 13 batters in a row, when Gene Clines led off the inning with a walk. Then, with two out, Willie Stargell hit his 33rd homer of the year to narrow the final deficit to one run.

Richie Zisk drew a walk following Stargell's homer, but Niekro got Manny Saguillen to pop out to second to end the game.

Heavy exhibition action on tap in pro football

By United Press International

The Miami Dolphins, who went undefeated in 1972 en route to winning the 1973 Super Bowl but could top the Cincinnati Bengals by only a 14-13 score last week, will try to improve upon this showing when the Dolphins face the New Orleans Saints at Miami Saturday night.

Miami, 17-0 last season, has now won 20 consecutive games in two seasons, including a 14-3 victory over the College All-Stars this year. In their game with Cincinnati, the Dolphins did not take the lead for good until scoring on a four-yard TD with 3:29 to play. New Orleans was 2-11-1 last year and dropped a 12-6 decision to Kansas City in their first preseason contest, as two Happy Feller field goals made up all their scoring.

In the two previous meetings between the clubs, the Dolphins won 21-0 in the 1971 after having lost to the Saints 20-17 in a 1967 preseason game.

In other Saturday night games, San Francisco and the New York Jets clash at Tampa in a battle of unbeatens, Baltimore is at Atlanta, Buffalo travels to Green Bay, Cincinnati hosts Philadelphia, Cleveland visits Los Angeles, Chicago faces Houston in the Astrodome, Oakland is at home against Dallas, Pittsburgh meets the Vikings at Minnesota and St. Louis is at San Diego.

In the lone Sunday night contest, the New York Giants battle New England at Foxboro, Mass. Detroit visits Kansas City in another game with unbeatens in the only Monday night game scheduled.

The New York Jets won their only preseason encounter, 16-13, over the Houston Oilers, but now goes against the only club besides Miami to win two exhibition games. The San Francisco 49ers defeated the Cleveland Browns 27-16 last week and New England 20-7 in an earlier contest, and the 49ers' defense has allowed only one touchdown so far.

In another Saturday night game Pittsburgh, victors over Baltimore by an impressive 34-7 score last week, will take on Minnesota in the Vikings' first preseason game.

In the other Saturday game involving two unbeatens, Dallas, which toppled Los Angeles 24-7 last week, meets Oakland, which tied New England 17-17 when George Blanda was short with a 43-yard field goal attempt as the clock ran out.

We just happened to be playing at Glen Brook the other day when a new record was set. The scene was the ninth tee and the record-setter was Glen Brook Men's Golf Assn. president Dick Talbot.

The record? Well, it's a dubious one, but a record nonetheless. The category is "Highest Driver Thrown" and the height listed is "way up there." In fact, it was so high off the ground it had ice on it when it came down.

ABA Commissioner says merger possible

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Bob Carlson of the American Basketball Association revealed Friday that the two major pro basketball leagues have been authorized by a federal court to seek a new merger agreement without Congressional approval.

Carlson said ABA attorneys obtained an order from Judge Robert L. Carter permitting "representatives of the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association to meet for the purpose of discussing and negotitating a merger, without Congressional approval, of the two basketball leagues or any of their member teams."

Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the NBA would not comment on the statement, although Carlson said NBA attorneys have received copies of the order.

When the two leagues first proposed a merger, the NBA Players Association obtained an injunction against such an amalgmation, citing that players' bargaining positions would be jeopardized.

The NBA and ABA then tried to bypass this ploy by seeking congressional approval for a merger.

Carlson stated that "the Federal court, which previously handed out the injunction, has modified the prior order and now says a merger agreement can be reached. As long as Congress has failed to act, and if the merger seems in the best interests of the concerned parties, it will be approved."

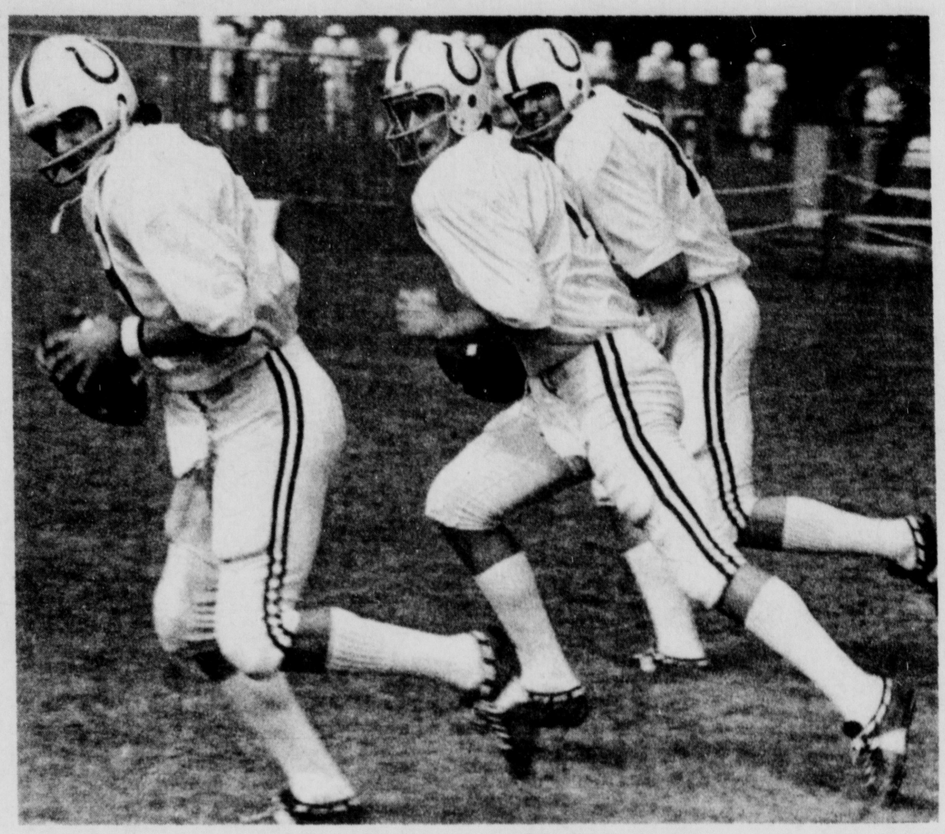

The ABA head said that a successful negotitation of a merger "now depends upon the efforts of Player Association attorney Larry Fleisher and the two leagues to agree upon merger terms and obtain final court approval."

One roadblock which had a Congressional committee hassling over the merger agreement was the reserve clause which virtually binds a player to a team. The lawmakers want this clause removed from contracts before they will approve a merger.

"In a competitive world, professional athletes must have a degree of freedom in playing for a team of their choise, and the ABA recognizes this fact," said Carlson in an apparent rap at the clause which many believe has been the sole reason for holding up the merger.

Peter Gruenberger, member of the counsel to the players, said there could be no merger unless the players' counsel of record is present at all talks affecting their rights.

"The court was cognizant of this fact and so expressed it," Gruenberger said.

Cubs drop sixth straight to Houston, rookie, 6-4

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rookie J.R. Richard gained credit for his fourth victory of the year and received fine relief help from Ken Forsch Friday as the Houston Astros defeated Chicago, 6-4, for the Cubs' sixth consecutive loss.

Richard, now 4-1, permitted only two singles but walked six in the 5 1-3 innings he worked.

Houston staked Richard to a 4-0 lead through the first 5 ½ innings. A single by Cesar Cedeno, a stolen base and Bobby Watson's single produced a run in the Houston first.

Singles by Jimmy Wynn, Watson and Doug Rader and an error by Carmen Fanzone gave Houston two more runs in the third.

Richard, whose infield out scored a run in the sixth, got into trouble in the Cubs' sixth when he gave up a single to Billy Williams and walked Hickman and Fanzone to load the bases. Jim Ray, who replaced Richard, gave up a two-run single to pinch-hitter Pat Bourque.

Forsch, ordinarily a starter, pitched the final 2 2-3 innings, striking out four, giving up a run and three hits.

Tommy Helms' two-run homer in the eighth off Bob Locker gave Houston its final runs.

Demotion claim by Kiick 'ridiculous,' responds Shula

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphin Coach Don Shula Friday labeled "ridiculous" the claim in a book by star running backs Jim Kiick and Larry Csonka that Kiick was demoted from Miami's starting team because he failed to complete a 12-minute run in training camp last season.

The claim is in a book due for publication Aug. 31, "Always On The Run," by Csonka, Kiick and sportswriter Dave Anderson of the New York Times which contains some bitter comments aimed at Shula by the "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" sidekicks.

Asked about excerpts from the book published in Friday's Miami News, the coach of the world champion Dolphins said with a wry smile, "They have already alerted me to take everything in there (the book) with a grain of salt."

But he added that it was "ridiculous" for them to think that Shula started Mercury Morris as running back in Miami's opening game last season in place of Kiick because Kiick quit running after eight minutes of the 12-minute endurance run which Shula has made a traditional grind on the opening day of training camp. When Kiick dropped out of the run at the start of the 1972 camp, Csonka dropped out with him.

During the Dolphins' 17-0 season, Shula rotated Kiick and Morris at running back and Morris finished the season with 1,000 yards rushing to 521 for Kiick, who had been a 1,000-yarder before.

In the book, Kiick says, "the situation went back to when I didn't finish the 12-minute run." He says he stopped after eight minutes because he was still recovering from a bout with flu and "I couldn't breathe."

Both Kiick and Csonka in the book emphasize that neither is resentful of Morris, but Kiick says "Shula is the one who stuck it to me." He says rotating with Morris "was a difficult situation for me to accept.

Csonka adds: "I resented it, too. Not because Merc wasn't a good back, but because Jim was a good back for four years and was a good last year."

"Jim shouldn't have been subjected to somebody taking his position," Csonka goes on. "And just because we didn't run his 12 minutes for him at training camp. That's why he did it. To get back at us. I'm sure of that. And it's not something I'm saying behind his back. I told it to him when it happened."

"The way I saw it," Csonka says, "Shula handed Merc the opportunity at Jim's expense. Not only handed Merc the opportunity but stepped on Jim's pride with no qualms. Step on Shula's pride and see how he reacts."

Shula, who also has a book coming out soon which he says discusses the Kiick-Morris situation, said of the Csonka-Kiick book, "If that's their assumption, that Kiick didn't start because of how poorly they ran the 12-minute run, I'm afraid they don't know Don Shula the man and the coach as well as they think they know him."

But he conceded he wasn't happy over the running incident.

"I was upset that day to see one guy struggling and then two guys struggling, shoulder-to-shoulder, step-by-step. They both trotted together and they both loafed together. That was the part I didn't appreciate," said Shula.

Culver joins Phils from Dodgers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced the acquisition Friday of veteran righthander George Culver from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Culver, 29, has pitched in 28 games for the Dodgers this season, all in relief, compiling a 4-4 record and a 3.00 earned run average.

To make room for Culver, the Phils optioned pitcher Dave Wallace to their Reading farm club in the Eastern League.

Culver has pitched for Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Houston in addition to the Dodgers.

On July 29, 1968, while with the Reds, he hurled a no-hitter against Philadelphia.

FROM DANSBURY SQUARE
It's not just an "accident" that we're busy. We tend to believe in work . . . What can we do for you?

FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE . . .
Look at the money coming in from this four apartment building with two store rooms, reasonable taxes and asking price.

I REMEMBER . . .
The first time I drove past this large, magnificent estate house. I slowed down to get a better look at the charm, warmth and character of yesteryears. Impressively set on five beautiful acres, towering shade trees, fine landscaping, terraced front and rear lawn with garden and stone patio. Pointed stone and deep windowsills reflects Colonial America. Original house carefully renovated and enlarged, all rooms generously sized. Tremendous new kitchen with food bar and large eating area, pantry, dining room opens to large columned porch. 18 x 22 living room with almost a full wall fireplace, large powder room, office with separate entrance, family room with built-in bookcases, five bedrooms, walk-in closets, three full baths upstairs, one with washer and dryer which stay; central hallway, master bedroom has sliding doors to balcony, impressive view, full attic and basement, barn, machine shed, garage. Seven minutes to Court House Square. Seriously for sale.

DISTINGUISHED . . .
In architecture and environment. Quality is apparent in this lovely, new, multi-level stone and redwood home, on over one acre, minutes from town. A cordial setting for entertaining is offered by the 22 x 13 foot cathedral living room with exposed beams, and furnished with a rugged fireplace, adjoining living room has insulated sliding doors to patio. A cheerful place for homemaking chores. The kitchen features dark wood cabinets, built-in avocado appliances and a convenient breakfast nook, three spacious bedrooms, one with balcony deck, 11 x 22 oversized bath with double vanity, family room, two car garage, utility room complete this substantial home just waiting for you.

MAKES YOU SMILE . . .
Even when paying the mortgage, it's such a pretty house, and a good home investment always pays the best interest. Here is the home that will fulfill today's quest for personal living. Rancher sets majestically on a corner knoll in a very lovely neighborhood three miles from East Stroudsburg. Three nice bedrooms, a really large living room with divider fireplace, dining room with gorgeous view to patio and garden, kitchen, mud room and utility room, two full baths, all Thermopane windows, finished oversized two car garage. Immaculate. Ready to move in.

NEARLY NEW . . .
Four bedrooms, 2½ baths, Colonial showplace unsparingly equipped for gracious, modern living and entertaining, exquisitely detailed, this two story home is on a corner property surrounded by the beauty of planned landscaping and large macadam driveway. Whether you enter front formal entrance or from the screened side porch or from the attached two car garage, every entry makes a lasting "first" impression. Large living room with fireplace, bright formal dining room; "Magazine" kitchen. Delicate colors throughout, ample storage space, family room, utility room, superb expression of elegance. Owners moving, priced to sell.

AUTHENTIC 1798 . . .
One of the three first homes ever built in the area radiates a charm found only in a home mellowed by many years. The owners have retained the beauty of the past yet added the modern conveniences needed for comfortable living today. Located in fork of road makes an ideal business site near the largest Pocono hotels. Four large bedrooms, balcony front porch, huge bath, family room on first floor, living room with built-in corner bookcase, formal dining room, eat-in kitchen with chair rail, back and front staircase, fire and burglar alarm system, very large cement side porch where you can enjoy your "cookouts", over ¼ acre, garage and other useful "out" buildings, a truly fine offering.

We're "the better way" to sell your home and we prove it . . .

Penny Arcade emporium

Cosh cashes in on nostalgia and antiques

DINGMANS FERRY — New and old meet in the jumble of goods in the Penny Arcade emporium in Dingmans Ferry.

Owned by Doug Cosh, the Penny Arcade boasts both antiques and health foods. The newest in leather goods lies on shelves encroached upon by antique jewelry and money pouches.

There is also a sizeable quantity of current nostalgia items — Hawaiian shirts, white buck shoes and velvet dresses.

Cosh began his shop as an antique store two years ago. He had previously run a similar shop in New Jersey.

His antique collection is indeed impressive. He says, also, that they are selling well and not just to other collectors.

"A lot of young people are buying antiques these days," said Cosh, a beared member of the younger generation himself.

Cosh appraised his business as a successful one — surprising in such a small town as Dingmans Ferry. He has made a few mistakes in gauging his customers, though.

"When I started stocking health foods, I got a lot of flour and things thinking people would be making their own bread and stuff," Cosh said. "But I wound up throwing a lot of it out."

His best selling health food items were candies and sweets, he said.

Cosh stocks a wide variety of clothing, old and new.

Hanging behind the antique cash register is a satin, hand-sewn dress from 1870. In an outer room are "hot sock," striped and multi-color knee socks that Cosh said are selling like hot cakes.

"I've sold 14 dozen of these and will be getting a new shipment of 16 dozen," boasted Cosh.

Crafted leather top hats and suede peaked caps dominate the shelves behind the hot socks. Dangling in the middle of the cabinet are thigh-high designed socks that Cosh said are very popular at Christmas time.

In the center of the room are pairs of saddle shoes and white bucks, now enjoying a revival in the fashion world.

Cosh said they are "new old." "They're from the 1950's but they've never been worn," he explained. "I bought them from a store that saved them."

For new shoes, they are also an excellent buy — if Cosh has the size that fits. (Most are very small or very large.) Bucks sell for $8; saddle shoes — men's and women's — are $6.

Cosh also has "new old" cosmetics, a new rage at the Penny Arcade. A multitude of face powders, fancy perfume bottles and lipstick tubes are scattered on shelves.

"I bought about $10 worth of the stuff at first," Cosh said. "And it was gone so quickly I had to get more."

Cosh's antique collection contains more than the usual rockers and oil lamps. His prize possession is a Medaco — a pseudo-medicinal device used in the 1920's.

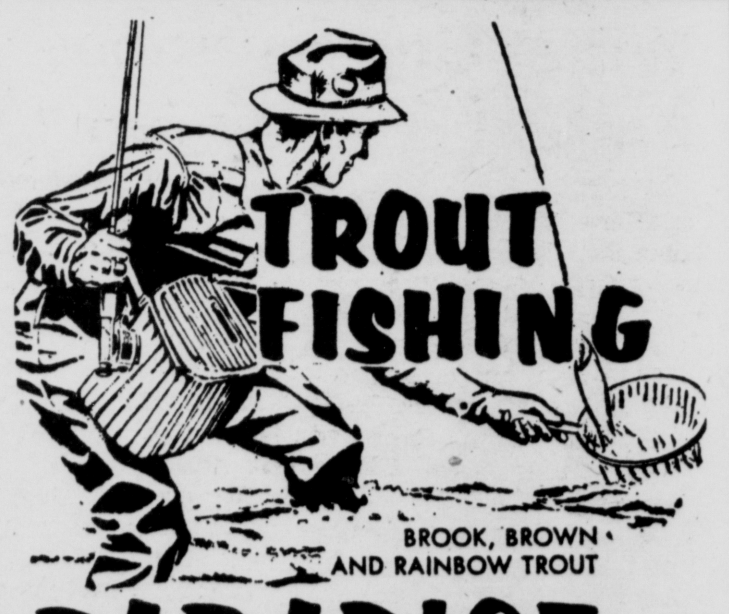

An electric charge is sent through a variety of glass instruments to gently shock a sick person's members. Ozone in the instruments causes them to glow purple.

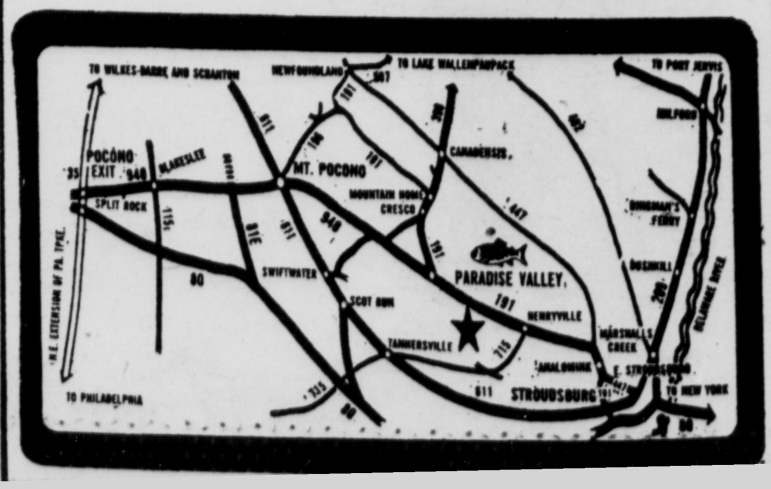

The snappy dresser will feel right at home in Doug Cosh's emporium. Brightly colored "hot socks", leather top hats and 1950's white bucks are just the ticket for the fashion conscious. The store also sells health foods and antiques. (Staff photo by Lora Sharpe)

Lake Wallenpaupack region

Water sports paradise awaits vacationers

LAKE WALLENPAUPACK — It's not unusual for family squabbles to erupt during discussions of possible vacation spots.

An area which offers enjoyment and relaxation is the ideal of everyone involved, but meeting certain particulars is what can cause disagreement.

Tops on Dad's list might be golf, fishing, and tennis, while Mom hopes to settle in a scenic area and have the opportunity to enjoy someone else's cooking.

As a compromise they settle for the mountains. But there's a hitch. The kids insist on a little action with boating and swimming — they want the shore.

This perennial problem of selecting the family vacation site can have a solution agreeable to all parties, namely the Lake Wallenpaupack region.

Short of surfing, Lake Wallenpaupack and 150 other Pocono lakes provide all the water sports that can be enjoyed at the beach, all in a natural setting, with an unusual assortment of resort activities and attractions close at hand.

Lake Wallenpaupack, which is only 100 miles from either New York City or Philadelphia, winds for 15 miles through the picturesque Paupack Valley of Pike and Wayne Counties.

It is the hub of the northern Pocono's resort region, and around its 53 mile shoreline are both public and private facilities for swimming, water skiing, and scuba diving. The mountain water is invigorating, and there are no jelly fish to dodge.

As the largest inland lake in Pennsylvania, with an area of 5,700 acres, Lake Wallenpaupack is a great boating center in the Poconos.

Numerous marinas and launching ramps service and supply any craft from canoe to cruiser.

The Poconos' lakes are often selected as sites for regattas, races, and water ski tournaments. A local yacht club holds sailboat races in classes ranging from sailfish and sunfish to comet and lightning every weekend during the summer.

There is plenty of action for water sport lovers, and exciting entertainment for spectators as well.

For Dad, or any other member of the family bit with the golfing bug, there's approximately 30 courses, ranging from miniature golf through pitch 'n putt, to championship courses.

The fisherman can find trout and walleye biting in Lake Wallenpaupack and surrounding lakes and streams. The frustrated angler might try a horseback ride or hike through cool and quiet secluded mountain trails.

As for Mom and her scenery, the Pike County region offers both mountains which rise to a height of 2,000 feet above sea level and valleys which drop 1,400 feet between the peaks.

Famous waterfalls of breathtaking beauty and sparkling lakes and streams add to the enchantment of forested hills.

The Delaware River forms the natural eastern boundary for Wayne and Pike Counties, and the Delaware Water Gap provides one of the Pocono's most spectacular views.

The Lake Wallenpaupack region offers a variety of family accommodations, including housekeeping cottages, inns, motor lodges, and resorts. There are also several honeymoon resorts which cater exclusively to young married couples.

For brochures and information, write the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, Box 1, 1004 Main Street, Stroudsburg, Pa. 18360.

Water Gap musicians present reed concert

MILLBROOK — Music for oboe and bassoon, which produce their sound by means of a vibrating double reed, will be featured at the Water Gap Concerts at 7:30 p.m. today.

The artists for the program are Virginia Brewer and David Dutton, oboe, Richard Vrotney, bassoon and Edward Brewer, harpsichord.

The selections to be played will include pieces by Marcello, Haydn, Handel and Zelenka.

The oboe is characterized by a rather plaintive quality and gives a penetrating sound which is well suited to music outdoors.

The bassoon, which in its upper register is very similar to the oboe, becomes less nasal in its accustomed place in the bass, and it takes on a buzzier quality than the oboe.

The Water Gap Concerts are sponsored by Artists for Environment Foundation in affiliation with the National Park Service at the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area.

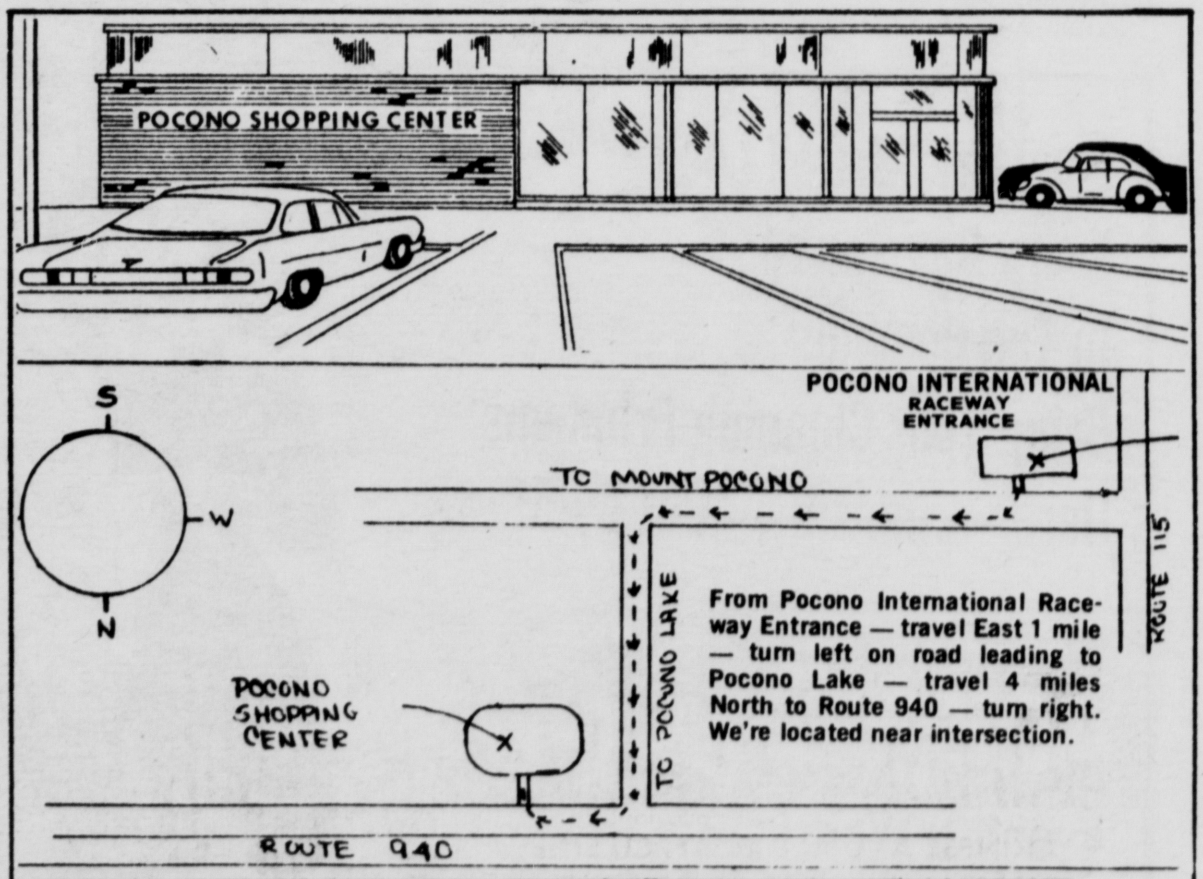

The event is free to the public and held one-half mile south of Millbrook, N.J.

In case of rain the concerts are held at the First Presbyterian Church in Blairstown.

The public is reminded to bring something to sit on and a flashlight for after the performance. Picnic facilities are also available at the concert site.

The collector's corner

Equine items spur hobby hunters

By BEATRICE F. GARFIELD

Today's article is about horses but we're not about to tell you who looks awfully good in the seventh race.

Our advice is strictly limited to the matter of their collectability and it's offered with the thought that you're searching for a fascinating and diversified hobby.

For centuries the noble beauty, agile grace and great strength of the horse has attracted artists and craftsmen of many media — and in every land.

Great museums are filled with Ancient Greek vases, Egyptian ivories, Renaissance bronzes and Chinese drawings extolling the vigorous beauty of the animal.

Happily for the collector of modest means there are thousands of art works of recent lineage which are just as appealing, but much more accessible.

An ardent admirer of horse antiques whom we know recently assembled an impressive collection which included rocking-horses, Staffordshire pottery, bridle buttons, Occupied Japan cabinet pieces, chromolithographs, and posters—all highly collectible and most of them costing only a few dollars.

Horses are to be found in nearly every art form: sculptured of marble, carved of wood, cast in metal and modeled of fine porcelain. One finds charming examples of pictorial calligraphy drawn in ink by painstaking 19th century folk artists, and great paintings by European and American academicians who have depicted the horse in various ways — at the hunt, on the farm or trotting rhythmically along a country lane.

A persevering collector might be fortunate enough to locate one of the furiously-snorting early carousel figures or the finely-wrought weathervanes which were in high vogue during the 19th century.

Many of the most popular vanes were actually designed after real horses whose fame was great and whose memory, in this substantial form, has ever endured.

Probably the most popular, although not necessarily the most available, categories are the Currier and Ives horse prints. That firm's outstanding staff of artists, many of whom specialized in horse subjects, turned out an impressive output of over five hundred different pictures! And today, nearly a century later, they are among the most wanted of all American collectibles.

Collectors of toys search for the little horse-drawn vehicles — circus wagons, fire engines and ice-wagons, all almost everywhere now obsolete and therefore rich with nostalgic appeal.

Jewelry featuring heads of horses, ornamenting cuff-links, brooches, stick-pins and charms, are always in demand. Jeweled horse-shoes, cherished as symbols of good fortune, never pine away from lonely neglect in jewelers' show-cases.

Are you wondering who buys all the horse collectibles?

Well — nearly everybody does

Junior collectors are enthusiastic savers, particularly if they themselves are equestrians who enjoy decorating their rooms and studios with miniature replicas of their beloved animal.

Many seasoned collectors, with, perhaps, less sentiment but an abundance of shrewdness, ride this hobby happily because they've observed prices galloping away for most of the "horsy items" — Western Americana, Chinese T'ang dynasty horses, English porcelain statuettes of celebrated equestrians, weathervanes depicting horses and Currier and Ives prints.

This gilded weathervane is on exhibition at the Hall of Fame of the Trotter in Goshen, N.Y. (Courtesy of the Hall of Fame)

Car enthusiasts present display

STROUDSBURG — A meet sponsored by members of the Pocono Region of the Antique Automobile Club of America will be held at the Stroudsburg High School athletic field Sunday, August 26.

The club will display approximately 200 antique cars for the public in an all day affair beginning at 9 a.m.

The club recently presented a car show in Delaware Water Gap, featuring autos from the 1912 to 1929 period, with such makes as a 1929 Stutz Bearcat.

Englishman to horse around at playhouse

Wilfred Hyde-White, versatile character actor, plays the head of an exclusive club of race-horse owners in the "Jockey Club Stakes" this week at the Pocono Playhouse. Hyde-White has appeared in films, television and on the stage.

MOUNTAINHOME — "Wilfrid Hyde-White's comic skill knows no limits," said Cue magazine when "The Jockey Club Stakes" opened a limited run in New York this January, inflating Broadway ticket-scalpers' prices beyond their usual astronomical sum.

Now, eight months later, direct from Broadway and a tour of major summer theatres, Hyde-White, a comet in the comedy firmament moves into the galaxy of Pocono Playhouse stars in the same show for one week, and at summer theatre prices, starting August 13.

New York's Voice of Broadway, Jack O'Brien, recently wrote: "If we may stick our enthusiasm into the summer theatre schedules, if Willy (Hyde-White) plays in your area, be sure to catch one of the dandiest performances in the history of stage whimsy."

"The Jockey Club Stakes", an airy, affable and meticulously crafted farce-comedy, casts Wilfrid Hyde-White as the head of an exclusive club of race-horse owners where behind-the-scenes shenanigans run riot.

These are brought on in part by the gambling mania of the club-president's wife, which tumbles the club officers into a number of awkward situations that, as Clive Barnes of the New York Times put it, add up to "a monkey-load of mischief".

The play is by William Douglas Home, and has been directed by Cyril Ritchard, also director of the Broadway cast.

If one were able to add up all the movie-goers, TV devotees and theatre buffs around the world who have guffawed at Wilfrid Hyde-White's witty antics in his 50-year career, the figure would be awesome, give or take a billion, to be on the safe side of statistics.

His name may or may not ring an immediate bell, but his face and voice are "instant recognition" to more than two generations of film viewers, having dissolved them into tears of laughter in over 40 movies.

"'The Jockey Club Stakes' promises to be a thoroughbred winner with our Playhouse audiences," commented Rowena Stevens in announcing Hyde-White's forthcoming appearance.

"The engagement is also in keeping with our tradition of bringing new stars every season into our 'Broadway in the Poconos' from New York, and the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington.

Incidentally, our next offering after 'Jockey Club' had a highly successful run in Washington, namely Tennessee Williams' great play, 'Summer and Smoke' starring Eva Marie Saint and Ronny Cox, whom many of our patrons will have seen recently in the movie 'Deliverance'.

Miss Saint is a star new to the Playhouse as is Jose Ferrer, who will lead the cast in the new musical 'A Song For Cyrano' in our two-week, post-Labor Day season opening Tuesday, September 4."

Tickets are now available at the Pocono Playhouse box office in Mountainhome (717-595-7456) and at its agencies in Scranton (346-1666) at The Jermyn Motor Inn, and in Honesdale (253-1390) at Scureman's Pharmacy. Playgoers in Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton and Phillipsburg may reserve tickets by making a toll-free call to ENterprise 1-0899.

YCC: On the job environmental education

Ecology corner

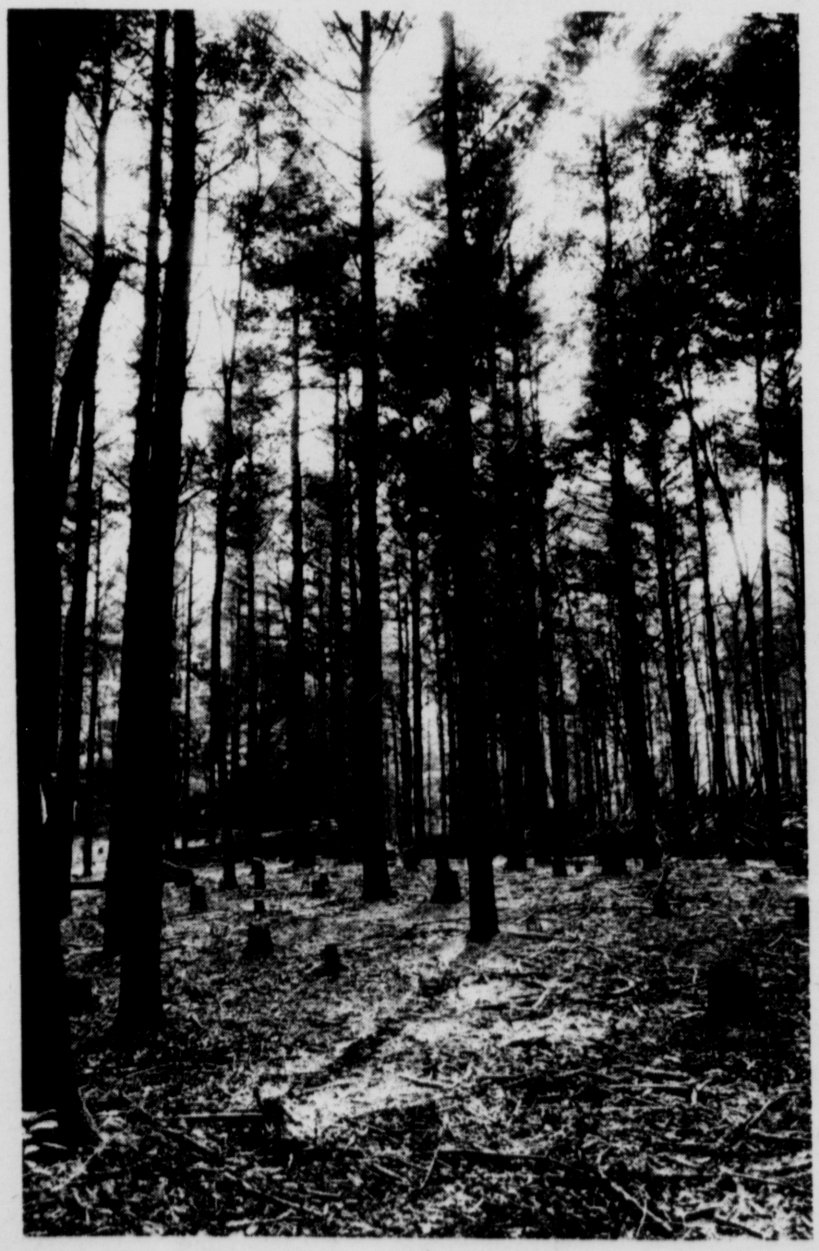

A member of the Youth Conservation Corps relaxes in his living quarters at the Pocono Environmental Education Center. Although the former honeymoon cabins are no longer lavishly furnished, individual sunken tubs exist as a reminder of luxury.

Trailblazing

Workers at this summer's Youth Conservation Corps program constructed a nature trail for the visually handicapped. The trail, at the site of the Pocono Environmental Education Center in Dingmans Ferry, is one of the few of its kind on the East Coast.

Staff photos by Brian Heller

Forest thinning

The 1972 group of YCC workers thinned out this portion of forest as one of their ecological projects. The clearing allowed additional sunlight to reach the ground-level vegetation.

Conservation carpenters

During their eight-week stay at the Pocono Environmental Education Center 30 YCC workers constructed over 100 picnic tables and A-frame shelters for use by the National Park Service.

Ecology eclipses honeymooning at ex-resort

By JOE DEVIVO
Pocono Record Reporter

DINGMANS FERRY — Teaching ecology at a honeymoon resort? Just the thought sounds more bizarre than even the Harvard experiment.

Yet the former Honeymoon Haven in Dingmans Ferry is now the site of the Pocono Environmental Education Center (PEEC), providing a camp for members of the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC).

As a cooperative venture between the National Park Service and Keystone Junior College of La Plume, PEEC is a pilot project of "the camp of the future," said Mike Mould, assistant camp director.

This summer, through a federally funded project, 30 Pennsylvania youths in the 15 to 18-year-old age bracket were enrolled in the eight week program which finished yesterday.

"The program has three main objectives," Mould said. "It provides an opportunity for the youths to earn summer money, an educational opportunity relating to ecology, and contributes to the development of the area's natural resources."

Although the YCC program is an outgrowth of Franklin D. Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps, there are a number of differences between the two "alphabet agencies."

Women's lib has broken through into YCC, for example, while the old CCC contained only male workers. A greater emphasis is also placed on formal education, in YCC with two evening sessions of lectures and film strips held per week.

Among the projects the YCC group has undertaken this summer are construction of over 100 picnic tables for the Park Service, a four-mile environmental trail, and a nature trail for the blind.

The latter accomplishment is rather unique, since only several others exist in the entire eastern United States.

"The tax dollars that go towards paying these kids are well worth it," Mould said. "For every dollar they're paid, they put in a full dollar or even two dollars of work."

Mould would like to see more 30 to 50 capacity camps established to aid the YCC program. Federal funding limits the PEEC facility to 30 members, which is a workable number of youths to handle.

Much of the conversion process of recycling Honeymoon Haven into an environmental laboratory is still underway, since it has only been open since last October.

The 56 buildings, capable of accommodating 180 people, are being painted green to conform with the ecology theme.

The dining room is still used to feed the camp workers, but other such facilities, like the bowling alleys, are to be converted for classroom use.

Other luxuries, such as an indoor swimming pool, and sunken baths in each cabin, remain as fixtures from the Honeymoon Haven era and are enjoyed by the YCC campers.

Jerry Howard, director at PEEC, is hopeful of attracting groups to take advantage of the facilities during the fall and winter seasons.

Any school district or public service group can make arrangements to visit PEEC by contacting Howard at 828-2319 or 828-2310, or by writing to Pocono Environmental Education Center, R.D. 1, Box 72, Dingmans Ferry, 18328.

"After all," Howard said, "environmental education is not for scientists. It's the youngsters who have to learn."

No limit to learning at environmental lab

DINGMANS FERRY — On a clear day, you can see forever. Or at least that's how the song lyrics go.

At Sky's Edge environmental laboratory near Dingmans Ferry, you can't see forever, but the peak does provide a view of High Point Park, N.J., about 30 miles in the distance and the Delaware River Valley.

Sky's Edge, a former resort, was taken over by the National Park Service several years ago and turned into an environmental laboratory for school groups.

"We decided to try to find a use for it," said naturalist Ray Fauber, "rather than tear it down."

About 50 persons can be accommodated at the Sky's Edge cabins. Groups are charged a nominal fee per night to defray costs.

Sky's Edge itself comprises about 22 acres, but several miles away is the larger Pocono Environmental Education Center, also a part of Park Service property.

Fauber feels environmental education is an important use of parks. "It's a logical use of public land to study man and his environment," Fauber said.

Elementary, high school, and college groups have made extensive use of Sky's Edge since it opened about three years ago.

Last spring, for example, sixth-graders from the East Stroudsburg School District spent two and a half days at Sky's Edge.

Each group is free to structure their own program of studies, ranging from geology and water studies to plant observation.

Facilities at Sky's Edge include an amphitheater, hiking trails, a lake, swimming pool, recreation hall, and dining room.

One aspect which the Park Service insists on maintaining is the natural aspect of Sky's Edge. There is little noise and no pesticides.

Grey Towers

Milford's Grey Towers provides key to luxury

By LORA SHARPE
Pocono Record Reporter

MILFORD — Luxury was the key word for the late Pennsylvania Governor Gifford Pinchot when he built his family manse in Milford in the late 1800's.

Pinchot, whose family had already built two prominent Colonial houses in the heart of Milford, constructed a French chateau on 3,600 acres of a hillside overlooking the Delaware Valley for his coup d'etat in 1886.

The chateau, called Grey Towers for obvious scenic reasons, is now the home of the United States Forest Service's Pinchot Institute for Environmental Research.

However, the Forest Service opens the historic mansion to the public daily during the summer months.

In the stone chateau, visitors can view what luxury was like in the old days.

The chateau has towers on three of its corners. The fourth contained only servants quarters and was built in traditional squared-off style.

Each tower was a family member's bedroom. In each room inlaid marble fireplaces and expansive double beds were the only furnishings.

Between Gifford Pinchot and Marie Pinchot's tower rooms a catwalk was built — for nighttime rendezvous with more romance than a walk across the hall.

The library Gov. Pinchot used is as he left it. In a first floor tower room, the library is filled with hunting trophies. The governor's desk set and books are scattered as if he had just stepped out for a walk.

The main library is now one of the best for ecology and environmental information. While it is not open for public use, permission may be granted to students of the sciences.

In the library hangs a portrait of Marie Eno Pinchot and one of her children painted in a French vogue. Many of the governor's books are preserved in glassed cabinets with his hunting trophies.

The large panelled ballroom is simply furnished with the richest in carved furniture. Many of the Pinchot furnishings were sold in auction before the Forest Service took over management of the manse.

Fresh foods crop up at Marshalls

DELAWARE, N.J. — If one ever gets the urge for fresh fruits and vegetables and good homemade peanut butter, not necessarily in that combination, there is always Marshall's Market along Rte. 46 near Delaware, N.J.

Marshall's Market, owned by George and Marion Marshall and their son and daughter, is not only a small vegetable stand, but a gift shop, market and approximately 100 acre farm besides.

"Eighty per cent of our fruits and vegetables are home grown and we also make our own peanut butter," Mrs. Marshall said.

She explained most of the other products and foods are bought from local distributors and farms.

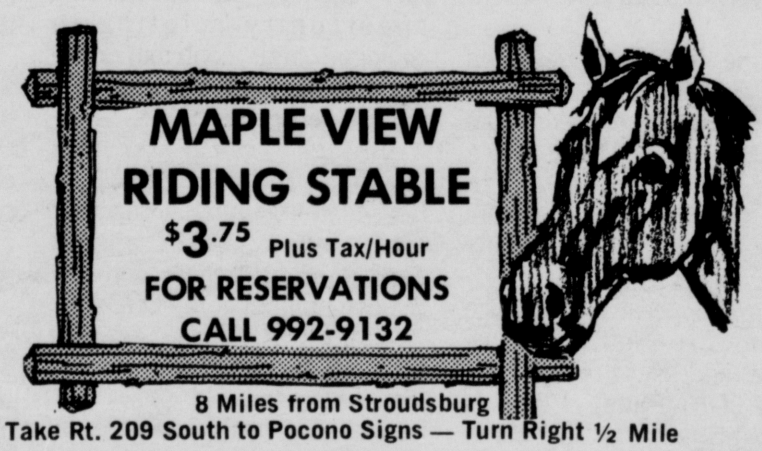

"There are absolutely no additives in the peanut butter we make, except peanuts. We have both salted and non-salted peanut butter," she said.

Marshall's Market has been in existence since 1922 and offers a variety of fresh produce including sweet corn, tomatoes, lettuce, beans, potatoes, carrots, cabbage, Swiss chard, zucchini and the list goes on and on. . .

"Our peak season is the months of August and September when we offer apples, cider, pumpkins and Indian corn along with our other produce," Mrs. Marshall said.

The stand is also open during the winter and offers an assortment of homemade baked goods, canned jellies and jams, honey, fresh New England mincemeat and smoked bacon, sausage.

Mrs. Marshall said most of their business in early years came from New York City, but she notices an ever increasing number of local people visiting the stand.

The formal gardens where the Pinchot's entertained guests in Polynesian luau-style. Exotic dishes were floated across the "Fingerbowl," the stone pond in the center, in wooden serving bowls from the South Seas. (Staff photo by Lora Sharpe)

Grey Towers

Milford's conservation monument

While there are enough pieces available to suitably furnish the chateau, Grey Towers director James Walsh mourned the loss of valuable pieces to bargain hunters.

On the grounds of the Pinchot estate are various structures built for the family's amusement.

In the rear of the manse is a large concrete pond built for outdoor dinners designed to be reminiscent of feasts the Pinchots attended in the South Sea Islands.

Nestled in formal gardens, the "Fingerbowl" served as a water table. Luau dishes were floated in wooden serving dishes from guest to guest in the manner of Polynesian banquets.

Two small houses are labelled the Bait Box and the Letter Box.

The Letter Box, matching in its grey stone to the chateau, was built to accomodate campaign workers while Pinchot was running for governor. Pinchot served as governor from 1923-27 and again in 1931-35.

The Bait Box was built for the governor's son Gifford, Jr., whom his father called "Mr. Fishes" because of his interest in fishing.

"Young Gif," as present-day residents of Milford still call Gifford Pinchot II, still lives on the Pinchot property. His own home is secluded in the forests of the estate.

He is still an avid fisherman, friends say, although he is adamant that a fishing guest use only conventional hooks on his rod in the Sawkill Creek which winds through Pinchot property.

Visitors can hike to Sawkill Falls by a special route through the Pinchot private property. However, all are warned to stay on the red-marked trail.

Grey Towers and 100 acres of the Pinchot estate was given to the United States Forest Service, of which the governor was the first head, in 1963.

President John F. Kennedy dedicated the mansion at the start of what was to be his last conservation tour of the United States on Sept. 24 of that year.

Pike County's waterfalls

Downward trends inspire tourist trade

Bushkill Falls

BUSHKILL — For Wall Street brokers, it's nothing but headaches when the stock market plunges. But in Pike County, downward trends can mean a bundle of profits.

Confused? You won't find the answer by studying the Standard and Poors charts. Instead take a look at any of Pike County's waterfalls, where drops attract droves of tourists.

Each of the area waterfalls, which can be reached from Rte. 209, has a distinctiveness.

At Bushkill Falls, billed as the "Niagara of Pennsylvania," for example, the main falls drops 100 feet. Eight other smaller falls combine to form a total drop of 300 feet.

A series of trails, which are marked on a guide, allow tourists to choose among various routes in the falls area. By following the longest path, a tourist could take up to one and a half hours to tour the area.

Charles Peters opened the falls as a public attraction in 1904, and developed it as a tourist attraction until his death in 1949.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pipher presently manage the facility for Harry M. Stevens, Inc. The falls is open daily from 8 a.m. until dark.

One misconception which abounds at Bushkill Falls is the belief the stream which feeds into the main falls is heavily polluted.

Foamy spots resembling soap suds form at the bottom of the gorge, leading tourists to believe a laundry is nearby.

Not so, said Pipher. The Bushkill Creek which flows over the falls originates in cedar and hemlock swamps. A chemical reaction of acid from the cedar tree roots and the hemlock needles causes foam in rapidly moving water.

In addition to the series of water falls, Bushkill Falls offers dens of raccoons, deer and bears, a picnic area, a gift shop, and boating and fishing at twin lakes.

The legend of Princess Winona is one of the main features at Winona Five Falls, also in Bushkill.

"It's a great story to attract honeymooners and young couples," said Mal Law, Winona Falls manager.

According to the legend, which has an unknown origin, Princess Winona of the Lenni Lenape tribe threw herself into the falls to bring an end to an Indian war.

Law, a native of Wilkes-Barre, usually relates the legend to groups, as well as other lecture material.

"We're interested in attracting groups from Monroe and Pike Counties," Law said. He believes "most area residents haven't seen the falls."

Winona Falls, open daily from 9 a.m. until one hour before dusk, offers trails leading to the five different falls. The series of falls, which carry such names as manitou, lover's retreat, and dancing water, cascade a total of 500 feet.

As an added attraction, the Winona Falls gift shop contains a free Indian display case, with relics from the Indians who roamed the Pike County area in the early colonial days.

Farther north along Rte. 209 in Dingmans Ferry are Dingmans and Silver Thread Falls.

Dingmans and Silver Thread Falls require no climbing to view the main falls, and are open from 7:15 a.m. to dusk daily.

Dingmans Falls, which cascades 175 feet, and Silver Thread Falls, 177 feet, have been open as a tourist attraction for approximately 100 years.

Hiking trails exist for those visitors who wish to go to the top of the falls.

The Dingmans Falls gift shop offers a selection of souvenirs, pewter ware, Indian moccasins, and Pennsylvania Dutch food.

Although it has had small amounts of the foam, similiar to that at Bushkill Falls and Winona Five Falls, the management at Dingmans has had the water tested by state officials to assure its purity.

The second group of falls in the Dingmans Ferry area is Raymondskill Falls, offering a series of seven different cascades approximately 175 feet high.

Located at the site of the 1780 Battle of Raymondskill, Raymondskill Falls has observation points at both the top and bottom of the falls, as well as hiking trails.

Milford heritage

Historical society journeys through the past

MILFORD — A lady president does exist and she lives in Milford, while presiding over the Pike County Historical Society.

Caroline Depuy, whose ancestors helped to found Milford, is a well traveled and well read historical buff.

What might seem to be vague history to the younger generation is transformed into fond reminisces and happy memories in the eyes of Mrs. Depuy.

"For the past 39 years there has always been a man president of the historical society. I guess I'm the first woman," she said.

During her administration, the memership of the Pike County Historical Society has grown to 190 participants and more activities have been started.

The Pike County Historical Museum, located on the second floor of the library building, has presented special displays sponsored by the historical society.

Mrs. Depuy said the displays have been organized around specific themes to aid in the educational aspects of the program.

"One week we might have a collection of Indian artifacts discovered throughout the county, and another time present a survey of local one room schoolhouses," she said.

The historical museum, open from 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. to 12 noon Thursday, is currently featuring displays with a Civil War theme. There is also a "primitive room" with such items as early cooking utensils, farm implements, spinning wheels and 19th Century costumes.

There is no admission charge to tour the museum, but donations will be accepted.

Mrs. Depuy said Milford history is also attracting the younger generation in the form of a state affiliated Junior Historical Society.

"Our Junior Historical Society has won state honors and is presently conducting a survey of the number of old houses in Milford," she said.

In describing some of the historic background of Milford, Mrs. Depuy explained her great grandfather, George Bowhanan, helped to settle the town.

"He opened Milford's Broad Street and signed the charter. He was also involved in starting the Presbyterian Church in our area," Mrs. Depuy said.

The Bowhanan name might seem more familiar in the form of Buchanan — as in President James Buchanan, the fifteenth president of the United States.

President Buchanan was related to the Bowhanans of Milford, but changed the spelling of his name, according to Mrs. Depuy.

Mrs. Depuy pointed out that Milford was modeled on the layout plan of Philadelphia with Broad and Hartford Streets in Milford running in the same direction as Broad and Market Streets in Philadelphia.

John Biddis, the designer of the layout, had all Milford's side streets and alleys named for fruits and trees patterned on similar Philadelphia street names.

The remaining thoroughfares in Milford are named after early settlers who were significant in the town's history.

Mrs. Depuy listed other Milford historical sites of special interest. She noted the county jail, begun in 1814 and completed in 1815, first served as the courthouse and a meeting place for county churches.

An interesting footnote to the jail's history was a hanging that took place there in the late 19th Century.

"From what I understand, they even charged admission to the event," Mrs. Depuy said.

The Pinchot Institute or Grey Towers, the former home of Governor Gifford Pinchot, is another historic building in Milford.

Governor Pinchot, "the father of modern conservation", was governor of Pennsylvania during the early 20th Century and pattered his Milford home on a castle located on the Rhine River.

Historical buff recalls eccentric philosopher

The 110 acre Pinchot estate is presently a conservation institute dedicated by President Kennedy in 1963 and open everyday during the summer.

The home of the philosopher Charles Pierce is also located in Milford and was recently bought by the National Park Service.

Mrs. Depuy said as a child she knew the Pierces and described the philosopher as "an eccentric, but brilliant man."

"Pierce used to enjoy his privacy and had a room in his house that could only be entered by climbing a rope ladder. He would retreat to this room and pull the ladder in after him," Mrs. Depuy said.

She said she hoped the park service would turn the house into a museum for the works and belongings of Pierce. Charles Pierce was one of Amercia's most reknown pragmatic philosophers, who wrote his greatest work during the late 19th Century.

Pierce had a strong influence on other philosophers including William James and John Dewey. A man approximately sixty years ahead of his time, Pierce was an intellectual outcast from Harvard after he divorced his first wife.

Mrs. Depuy referred to other famous Milford monuments including the Tom Quick Momument, dedicated to an early Indian fighter.

Grain record

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — Last summer's sale of 400 million bushels of wheat, 275 million bushels of feed grains and more than 35 million bushels of soybeans to the Soviet Union was the largest sale of grain to a foreign country in U.S. history.

Tanglwood to present 'Star Spangled Girl'

TAFTON — JoAnne Sedwick, daughter of Tanglwood producer John Sedwick, will be featured as Sophie, along with Tom Cuff in the role of Norman in Neil Simon's "Star Spangled Girl" this week at the Tanglwood Dinner Theatre.

The scene is a jumbled San Francisco apartment which also serves as the chaotic office of Fallout Magazine, "A Ramedy for a Sick Society."

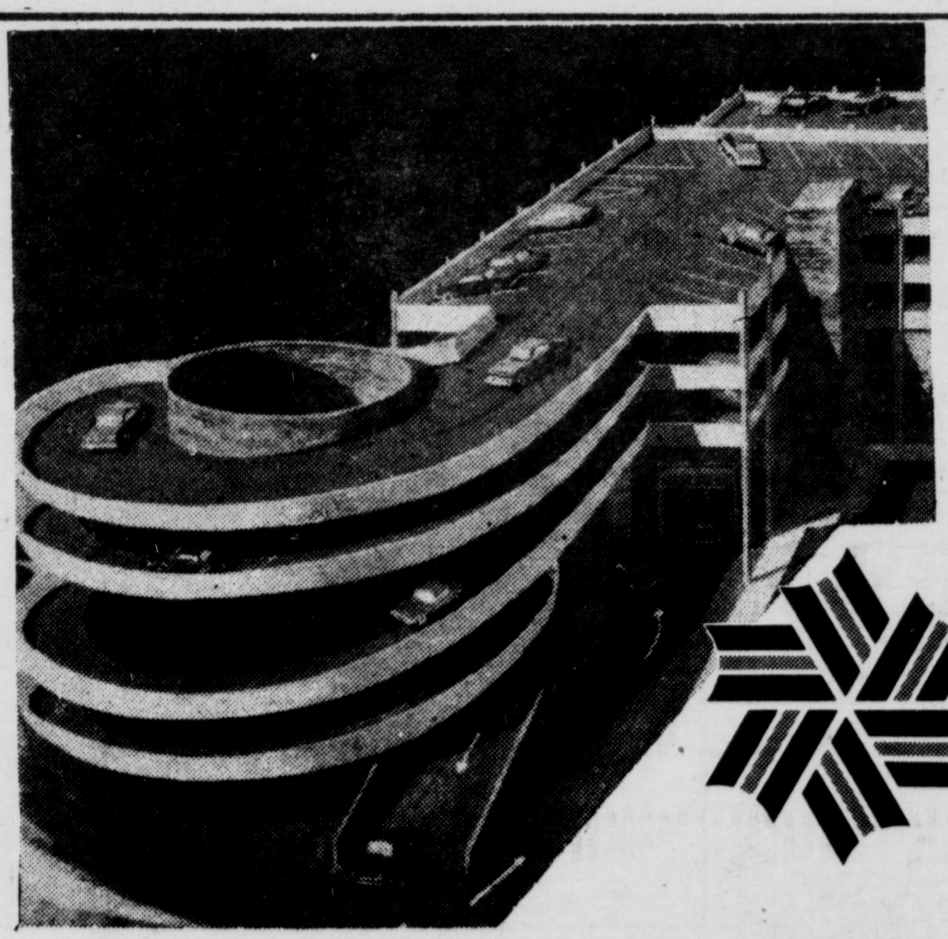

"Fallout" is the brain child of Andy Hobart, a young cynic, and his zany, brainy assistant, Norman Cornell.

Enter gorgeous Sophie Rauschmeyer, all-American beauty and Olympic swimmer to boot. The ensuing situation is as hilarious as only Neil Simon can produce.

Simon's other shows including "Barefoot in the Park," "Plaza Suite" and "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" have all been Broadway smash hits.

A new addition to the Tanglwood company, Ed Hooks, will take on the role of wily Andy Hobart, the dedicated entrepreneur behind Fallout Magazine.

Hooks has many television soap opera to his credit.
